HORNSBY TRADE

President of Giants Says Deal Was Made to End Talk Former Cardinal Would Displace McGraw.

SECOND BASEMAN
DENIES AMBITION

Never Had a Word of Controversy, but Likes to Work for New York Leader, He Asserts.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Boston Braves, "in order to avoid any future conflict in the management of the club and for no other reason," Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, said today.

"Statements have been made throughout the country that Mr. Hornsby would be the future manager of the club," he said. "I have never been consulted regarding this and have had no conference with the selection of a manager as Mr. McGraw still retains the management of the New York Giants."

"We feel that we have done what is for the best, looking toward the future welfare of the organization."

The "most mysterious trade" that baseball has ever known" is the view that close followers of the game take today of the transaction between the New York and Boston clubs of the National League, the transfer of Rogers Hornsby, captain and second baseman from the Giants to the Braves for Catcher Francis Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welsh, announced last night.

Answering the statement of Charles A. Stoneham, Hornsby said that there never had been one word of controversy between himself and McGraw and that he never had contemplated getting the management of the Giants.

"I consider McGraw a great manager, the best I ever knew, and I would always be glad to take orders from him. I always took orders from him and never questioned his orders. He told St. Louis newspaper men last year that he contemplated making me manager when he retired and that was the first time I ever heard my name connected with the manager's job.

REED WILL ADDRESS JACKSON DAY DINNER

Smith Followers Favor Central City for Democratic National Convention.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Choice of the meeting place of the 1928 Democratic national convention appears now to be gradually tying up with the causes of the various candidates for the nomination. The arrival of practically three scores of members of the Democratic National Committee for sessions beginning tomorrow and the Jackson day dinner tomorrow night brought impromptu hotel lobby conferences, which indicated a preference to hold the convention in a place which would give greater stimulation to the party's prospects.

Supporters of Gov. Smith of New York, who seemed to predominate among the early arrivals, are attempting to agree upon the convention city, with indications that a central point will be favored by them.

Cities mentioned by these party leaders include Detroit, Mich.; Chicago and Cleveland, O. Proponents of San Francisco, Houston, Tex., and Miami, Fla., are pressing the claims of those points with some opponents of Smith supporting those cities.

Joseph F. Guffey, national committeeman from Pennsylvania, declared Smith would be nominated with only a few ballots. A similar view was voiced by George T. Christensen, national committeeman from Washington. Will R. King, Oregon committeeman, said there was some sentiment in his state for Senator Reed of Missouri, but that Smith appeared to be the choice of most of the Democrats in his state.

It was announced today that Reed, who has been confined to his hotel here with a slight attack of bronchitis, would attend the Jackson day dinner and deliver an address.

Except for Gov. Smith, most of the other potential and actual candidates for the nomination also will be on hand. These include Evans Woolen of Indiana, Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, Senator Walsh of Montana, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, and Senator George of Georgia, who was in St. Louis last night at a dinner of Georgia Democrats here. A harmony gathering was predicted by most leaders, who expressed the view that much of the bitterness engendered at the 1924 Madison Square Garden convention would be removed.

SUNDAY DEFENDS REVIVAL MEETING AS LIKE A BATH

Neither Is Permanent and Both Must Be Repeated Faithfully for Good Effect, He Says.

HURLS HIS CHAIR FROM PLATFORM

Evangelist Declares Every Bootlegger and Gunman in City Is Against His Campaign.

"Billy" Sunday last night made use of an unchurched list of people who do not like revivals. Then he challenged church people to get on the list.

"Against this revival," he said, "you will find every black-legged gambler, every dog peddler, every bootlegger, every madame of the red light, every gunman; you will find the God-forsaken hobo and every ruff-raff, plug-ugly, rag-shag and bottle of society that feeds and fattens and gormandizes upon the virtues, the manhood and the womanhood of others."

"Think twice if the church wants to line up with a dirty bunch like that."

About 600 persons attended last night's services and 3000 yesterday afternoon's, the second day of the seven-week revival which began Sunday at the Coliseum. Monday is the day of rest for Sunday and his staff.

Slow in Warming Up.
The assemblage was a few minutes warming up to the sermon. He was the evangelist. For a while he stuck close to the stand which bore his notes or manuscript, muttering "Yes, sir!" or "That's right!" to himself.

But as he covered more territory in his sermon, he covered more territory also in his interpretative banter about the stage. Soon the members were in almost continuous laughter or applause, and the platform, probably 10 feet by 12, was too small to hold him.

Once he leaped out on an improvised press table adjoining, and again he tossed his light blue chair as it fell against the shoulder of a newspaper reporter, who smiled wanly and carefully pushed the chair back to its place on the platform.

He made his familiar declaration that he asked no quarter and gave none; that he would "keep kicking away God's truth at me" if "all the devils on earth were here and sat on the seats to hear me."

The first applause in volume came when he said, "I do not believe the Bible contains the Word of God; I believe the Bible is the Word of God."

"Secure Yourself With Bible." "Square yourself by it. See what it will do for you. See if it won't wash the flask out of your hip pocket."

He balanced remarks that "Jesus Christ was a great disturber" and produced an element of unrest, with quotations from pleas of the American Bankers' Association and the Manufacturers' Record for spiritual awakening and a polemic against radicals.

"O-o-o-o, Americans!" he roared, "will we submit to that gang?"

"A revival's temporary," he announced. "Yes; so's a bath. But does you good—you wouldn't stay in the bath-tub all the time, would you, you nut?"

The revolutionary war was temporary, but we've been free for 70 years and singing the "Star Spangled Banner" instead of "God Save the King."

Preacher and Devil Agree.
He said a revival was to religion what an election campaign was to politics, what a Chamber of Commerce drive was to business; "what amusement is to colleges, what health is to an individual; what is to a culture." He told the small boy who said, "My father's a preacher; he doesn't believe in revivals," with the reply, "That's where your father agrees with the devil."

"The world does not join the church, because the church has led the world," he declared. "Talking of distractions of the age, I had about a missionary society in a millinery sale on the way to meeting that, when she finally entered, she leaped on the platform and said, 'Let us sing No. 1418!'"

Addressing City Club.
Standing room was taken, as well as seats for 550 persons, for Sunday's plea for honesty and kindness in business today at the City Club, which he cautioned, "It's nothing to possess money, another man's money."

His faces seemed thoughtful, a faint altogether friendly, but he failed to relax at his many questions. The evangelist made too much attention had been paid to conduct—"letting the source of conduct go to the devil." "An enlightened conscience, but

REPUTABLE DRINKERS RAKED BY U. S. JUDGE

They Cause Downfall of Youths Who Work to Serve Them, Says Davis.

Federal Judge Davis, in sentencing four men to jail for violation of the liquor laws, took occasion this morning to comment on the "prevailing encouragement to young men" to go into the liquor business.

Sentencing George Jones, 23 years old, employed in a road house at 2800 St. Charles Rock road, to 45 days in Warrenton jail, Davis said: "You are apparently a clean-cut American youth. It gives me no pleasure to have to pass sentence on you. You're working for a foreigner who was able to pay his fine and go free. You'll have to go to jail."

"There is too much encouragement from our so-called good people, for youths like you to violate the law. I was told yesterday by a defendant who pleaded for leniency that some of the 'best people of the city' patronized his place, including several members of the bar. Now it seems to me that our good people, if they are good citizens, should hesitate to hold out inducements to young men to break the law."

Jones' employer, John Santenipo, was fined $300 yesterday after pleading guilty to two charges of possession.

Other Cases on Docket.
Other cases disposed of by Judge Davis today were: Otto Miller, bartender, sentenced to 60 days in jail after pleading guilty to possession—second offense; Charles Insulaid, 214 North Channing avenue, fined $450 for possession; Martin Koehler, 2120 Linden street, sentenced to 60 days in jail on pleading guilty to second offense of possession, and Henry Kemp, former proprietor of Mary's, near Ellisville, Mo., sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $400 after pleading guilty.

Twenty-four cases are on today's docket.

Jacob Scholl, 4261 Gano avenue; William Kiser, 2301 South Broadway, and Thomas L. Church of Riverside Drive and Larmore road, were sentenced to 60 days in jail each after pleading guilty to a second offense of possession. John Noonan, 3700 Cass avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for sale of liquor and fined $400 for possession.

Others Who Were Fined.
The following, pleading guilty to possession, also were fined: Walter Kaercher, 5724 Easton avenue, $400; John Krygiel, Second and Lami streets, $450; Wendell S. McHenry, Telegraph and Sappington roads, $450; Sam Martin, Fair and Greenleaf avenues, $450; Angelo Naccarato, 2215 Franklin avenue, $450; Thomas O'Toole, St. Louis county, $400; Leo Judd, East Grand avenue and North Broadway, $450; Darryl S. Leventry, 1425 South Vandeventer avenue, $400, and Mrs. Caroline Tapello, Nebraska and Gravois avenues, $300.

George Van Riper Quits Firm.
George Van Riper has resigned as an officer and director of Love, Van Riper & Bryan, Inc. The firm hereafter will be known as Love, Bryan & Co.

"An enlightened conscience does not come from the law, you know; it comes from religion," he added that no public effort to enforce law could succeed without people determined to obey the law.

Evangelistic Service "As a Counterpoise to Billy Sunday."
As a counterpoise to Billy Sunday, the Rev. Dwight Bradley has announced a series of "distinctly evangelistic" sermons in the First Congregational Church of Webster Groves. The series began last Sunday, and will continue through the scheduled period of the Coliseum revival, ending Feb. 26.

In a printed announcement, the Rev. Mr. Bradley says that "while not in sympathy with Dr. Sunday's viewpoint, and unable to acquiesce in his well-known method of attack," he is "in hearty accord with the effort to make religion more real, vital, interesting and powerful. In so far as the Sunday meetings do this," he adds, "every one should wish them Godspeed."

WITNESSES GONE, SO AUTO KILLING CHARGE MAY FAIL

Prosecutor Says Dismissal of John C. Heman Jr. Is Considered After Fourth Continuance.

Following the fourth continuance of an automobile manslaughter charge against John C. Heman Jr., wealthy contractor, because of the failure of six State's witnesses to appear in court, the prosecutor, Assistant Circuit Attorney Lemon, today expressed the belief that he may find it necessary to dismiss the charge because of the unusual circumstances under which the State's testimony was gathered.

As is known, the charge against Heman, who is 25 years old and lives at 6327 Kingsbury avenue, is based upon the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, who was killed by an automobile driven by Heman, at Park and California avenues, the night of Nov. 25, 1926. She was the second woman to be killed within 20 months by a car driven by Heman.

Unable to Find Witnesses.
At the Coroner's inquest, policemen reported their inability to find witnesses to the accident. At the request of Coroner Wolf, however, Heman promised not to drive his automobile for a year. It was shown at the time that besides participating in the fatal accidents, he had paid fines or costs seven times for speeding, once for violating a parking ordinance, once for failing to stop at a red light, and once for failure to make a boulevard stop. Seven other traffic violations not proven were four boulevard stops and one charge each of speeding, reckless driving and blocking traffic.

The first woman killed by Heman's automobile was Mrs. Lillian Schreiber. Her daughter, Mrs. Sophia Scallet, a milliner at 3527 North Grand boulevard, worked up the State's case against Heman in the Foster case.

Attending the Foster inquest with the avowed purpose of helping to penalize Heman for the Foster killing, she had gone unpunished for the killing of her mother, Mrs. Scallet, in search of witnesses, later spent a week in a house-to-house canvass of the neighborhood in which Mrs. Foster was killed.

Indicted by Grand Jury.
Meanwhile, Louis Martin Wolf, attorney for the estate of Mrs. Foster, had filed civil suit against Heman for $10,000 and had advertised in newspapers for witnesses. Between the efforts of Wolf and Mrs. Scallet, six witnesses who said they had direct testimony on the incident, were sent before the grand jury in December, 1926, and Heman was indicted.

Since then the case has had four continuances, as follows: May 23, 1927, for the State; Aug. 8, for the defense; Nov. 14, by consent, and last Monday, its most recent setting, after by consent. On the last setting, Prosecutor Lemon said today, Deputy Sheriffs could find only one witness for direct testimony, and he failed to appear in court. He is Lewis Williamson of 2727A Park avenue, who previously had declared Heman was driving 50 to 55 miles an hour when his auto struck Mrs. Foster.

A copy of a subpoena had been left for Peter Zoller, another State's witness, at his home, 3241 Geyer avenue, but he had not responded. As a matter of law he was not bound to, on such a service. The deputies made returns "not found" on a Mrs. Lewis, who lives at the same address as Williamson; Mrs. A. H. Bergfeld of Joplin and Mrs. Maud Morton, 1414 South Ewing avenue. No attempt had been made to serve Mrs. Elizabeth Sanford of 7465 Franklin boulevard, Maplewood.

Women Told of Speed.
Before the grand jury Mrs. Morton and Mrs. Bergfeld, who was visiting a relative at 4464 Delmar boulevard at the time, are understood to have confirmed Williamson's testimony that Heman was driving at high speed at the time of the accident.

The State's case was complicated, however, by testimony which came to light in depositions taken in Attorney Wolf's damage suit against Heman. There, Mrs. Sanford testified that Wolf had offered her $300 to testify against Heman.

Later Wolf denied the charge, saying he had offered to reimburse her to that amount after the case had concluded, but only because she was to miss a trip to California to testify at Heman's trial. Mrs. Sanford also declared Mrs. Scallet had told her she was being paid $5.00 a day by Wolf to investigate Mrs. Foster's death. She also declared Mrs. Scallet had offered her "the best bid in St. Louis" if she would appear against Heman. This Mrs. Scallet denied.

Former Assistant Circuit Attorney William Baer, attorney for Heman, has declared he thinks he can confound State's witnesses, if they take the stand, by showing the alleged efforts of the backers of the prosecution to obtain testimony adverse to Heman.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Lemon, was inclined to the same opinion, but declared he would make no final decision until he had read

OWNER OF CAFE SLAN IN FIGHT OF CUSTOMERS

Christo Papatrefon Stabbed by James Belford, a Friend, When He Interferes in Quarrel.

Acting as peacemaker when two men began fighting in his restaurant at 223 Market street last night, Christo Papatrefon was stabbed with his own butcher knife and died on the operating table at city hospital.

The man who stabbed him was a friend, James Belford, 64 years old, who roomed in the vicinity of the restaurant. He is held for the Coroner.

Witnesses, John Papatrefon, son of the proprietor, and Grace Laszlo, waitress, told police that Belford entered the restaurant at 6:15 o'clock for a drink of water and on his way out struck Dennis Drozitis, a barber, who was eating dinner at a front table. They said Drozitis jumped toward Belford and that Papatrefon, running from behind a counter to part the two men, was stabbed in the abdomen when Belford picked up a butcher knife and struck at Drozitis.

Belford told police he had patronized Papatrefon's restaurant for several years and formerly had worked at Drozitis' barber shop at 228 Market street. In passing Drozitis' table, Belford said he inquired where he could find a certain barber named Charley.

"Drozitis replied by calling me a vile name," Belford related. "I slapped his face and he hit me with a vinegar bottle. Then I picked up a knife, and Papatrefon got between us."

Papatrefon was 42 years old. He had conducted the Market street restaurant for five years and before then had a cafe at Grand and Gravois avenues. Besides his son here, he is survived by a wife and three children in Greece.

nouncing American intervention in Nicaragua.

The newspaper prints a cartoon representing "Uncle Sam" armed with a revolver, dagger and cannon and attacking the Central American republic. It compares the United States and Sandino as two giants, the former by his power and the rebel leader by his moral force.

The newspaper asks if it is necessary to murder a handful of Nicaraguans placed as sentinels on the continent to awaken America, hoping that it will avoid the shame of a race which does not hear the voice of its brothers.

The anti-imperialist league will meet here today to protest against the intervention by the United States in Nicaragua. Moises Gastros y Morales, well-known Central American lawyer, will preside at the meeting.

Sandino Seized Coffee Crop to Buy Ammunition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The main source of revenue of the Sandino band in Nicaragua, Washington officials say, has been the coffee crop seized from the scattered cultivated patches in the area where they operate. A market for this coffee is found across the border in Honduras where it is sold at half the usual price.

Government reports here are declared to show that sufficient revenue has been derived from this source to account for purchases here and there in Honduras of whatever additional arms and munitions the Sandino forces have received recently. Suggestions that some outside agency is supplying Sandino are more or less scouted at the State Department.

Washington political officials also seemed inclined to look upon estimates of heavy casualties among the Sandino forces in clashes with the marines as highly imaginary.

Elevator Falls, 15 Hurt.
NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Fifteen persons, most of them women, were injured today when an elevator plunged seven stories in the warehouse of the United States Appraiser at Christopher and Washington street. The injured were employees in the building. The fall was believed to have been caused by the slipping or breaking of a roof clamp supporting the car cables.

The depositions in the damage suit, "If the civil suit testimony is as stated by Baer, it certainly prejudices the State's case seriously," he said. "The State has the additional handicap of being unable to get its witnesses to court. This is all the more unusual because in the first instance they appeared voluntarily. If I find that the acts are as the defense states them to me, I think I shall be obliged to issue a writ of habeas corpus in the case against Heman. It would be useless to take it to trial under such circumstances."

Description of Ceremonies Miss Miller Must Take Part in Before She Can Wed Former Maharajah

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 11.—The British Government is not likely to interfere with the reported intention of the former Maharajah of Indore to marry Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, it is stated authoritatively today. Now that he has abdicated in favor of his son and has the status of an ordinary citizen, the Government is not concerned with the former Maharajah's private affairs.

It is considered unlikely that the former ruler will return to Indore. He was forbidden to return, because of his appearance while another Prince was ruling might create disturbances.

The purification ceremony known as shuddhi which Miss Miller must undergo to be converted from Christianity to Hinduism will be a strange experience for the American girl. As described by the secretary of the Hindu Students' Union, the ceremony lasts for about two and a half hours. She must sit and listen to the chanting of Hindu priests invoking the blessing of the Hindu trinity upon her, particularly requesting that she may be happy. She takes no part in the ceremony and makes no responses.

Miss Miller must get up very early in the morning since the ritual begins at sunrise. If there is no sun, there is no ceremony. For days previous to the ceremony the priests cast lots in order to select an auspicious day. They begin the ceremonies by building a fire of coals known as Agni in the middle of the room. Incense is poured on the fire until the room is foggy with clouds of it from 75 to 100 priests take part in the ceremony.

In the middle of the service a goblet of holy water is handed to the neophyte and she must drink. Then follows another hour of chanting in Hindu. The priests accept her presence at the ceremony as evidence of the fact that she believes in the Hindu religion's triad of gods: Brahma, creator of the world; Vishnu, god of justice, and Shiva, god of vengeance.

Miss Miller must wear the Hindu woman's flowing garb called the Sari, though it is not necessary for her to wear the veil. The ceremony of shuddhi is followed by a feast.

Shuddhi gives Miss Miller equal social rights with all native born Hindu women but admits her to only about 50 per cent of the Hindu temples. The ceremony is necessary to give the wife of a Hindu legal standing. Otherwise she is unable to inherit her husband's property. If there is legal issue of a marriage, the children inherit the property. The wife or wives merely get maintenance according to the style in which they were living when the husband was alive. Since the former Maharajah has children, all that Miss Miller can expect in the way of an inheritance is maintenance.

FORMER HEAD OF PAGE BANK PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN COURT
J. L. Crain, former president of the defunct Page Bank, which closed its doors with the murder of Clifford Hicks, St. Louis attorney, pleaded not guilty today when he was arraigned before Circuit Judge Miller at Clayton on nine counts in indictments by the St. Louis County grand jury Saturday.

Crain's bond of $15,500 was continued. Five of the indictment counts charge Crain with accepting money when he knew the Page Bank was in a failing condition; two of the counts charge that he lent out 25 per cent of the bank's capital; there is one count of grand larceny in connection with the transfer of a sum of money; and the ninth count charges improper use of his notary's authority in attesting a signature.

POISON ALCOHOL IN LOAD STOLEN WITH PARKED TRUCK
A motor truck loaded with three 52-gallon drums of alcohol was stolen between 1 and 2 p. m. today, when parked on Broadway north of Carr street, police were informed by the driver, Joseph Swanner. Two of the drums contained pure grain alcohol, which is drinkable, the third contained wood alcohol, which is poisonous. The driver was in a nearby restaurant at the time of the theft. The truck is owned by the Weber Druggists & Warehouse Co. of 1333 South Second street.

The drums containing grain alcohol were valued at $238 and were consigned by the United States Industrial Alcohol Sales Co. Inc., 1333 South Second street, to the Mallinckrodt Chemical Co., 3600 North Second street. The wood alcohol, valued at $42, was consigned to the Sullivan Paint Co., 2100 Pine street.

GUNPOWDER CAN AND CANDLE AT FIRE SCENE

Police Question Officers of Fur Shop—They Deny Knowledge of Blaze.

Investigating a fire and explosion at 2:55 a. m. today at the Potteck-Schimmel Co. manufacturing furriers, 319A Washington avenue, police reported finding an empty gunpowder can and a plumber's candle in the place.

George Potteck, president, and Emanuel Schimmel, secretary-treasurer, questioned by police, said they could not account for the can and candle being there. Amount of damage to the building and stock was not estimated.

Gluck's restaurant on the ground floor was damaged $1000 by water. The fire started in the second floor, where a man was sleeping. A 12-foot length of black fuse with cap attached, a two-gallon bucket of gasoline, two cans of ether and a bundle of ether-saturated rags were found in the candy store kitchen.

The proprietors, Louis and James George, brothers, were questioned at their home, 3424A St. Louis. One was in bed and the other just getting in when police arrived. They said they knew of no reason for attempted arson.

CONSTABLES COLLECT NIGHT CLUB RECEIPTS

Larry Conley Fails to Get His Part, and Asks for Receiver.

Constables and Deputy Constables have been nightly visitors at "The Tent," a night club at 1122A Washington avenue, so today Larry Conley, jazz band leader and song writer, enveloped "The Tent" in a receivership.

The officers came, Conley complains, not to dance, dine or pour ginger ale over cracked ice, but to stand by the cashier and take the cash in satisfaction of attachment writs obtained by creditors. Their presence, says Conley, "disrupted the good will" engendered by the syncretized music and other attractions.

Moreover, the officers of the law were not satisfied to split $9.50 with the management. The nightly receipts averaged $350, but the officers took away an average of $200, Conley says.

Hoping to put "The Tent" on a firmer ground and eliminate attachment writs and officers who serve them, Conley filed a receivership petition against the Arabian Club, Inc., a $10,000 corporation which operates the club.

New York club really owned the Braves.
"I can't figure it," Hornsby said, "unless New York or the league wants to build up the Boston team, either to make the property more valuable or to make a better race of it. Hogan is a good catcher and Welsh a fair outfielder, but I can't see the trade as a straight player deal designed to help the Giants."

Hornsby Suggests Explanation.
The explanation of the trade suggested by Hornsby is the most interesting conjecture of the many inspired by the trade.
For years it has been rumored but never admitted or proved that the same capital that controlled the Giants controlled the Braves. In the past the Braves frequently helped the Giants by trading great pitchers and infielders to the New York Club. The Giants also have assisted the Braves. Several years ago Dave Bancroft, then star shortstop of the Giants, was traded to the Braves in the apparent hope that the acquisition of the great infielder would revive baseball interest in Boston.

In support of the explanation it is suggested that if the sale of the Giants were contemplated the transfer of Hornsby to Boston would be to the best interests of the owners, if the same capital that controlled the Giants also controlled the Braves.

Denies Friction With McGraw.
"No, there never has been any friction between myself and McGraw," Hornsby replied to a question. "I still think he is the greatest manager in baseball and I'd rather play for him than anybody else. We never had any row. There was no discord and I thought I was as high with him."

Yesterday Hornsby heard that Kirby Samuel, Cardinal "punch," had been discharged at the request of Bill McKechnie, the new manager of the Cardinals, and he tried to reach McGraw by telephone to obtain a position for Samuel. Last night he phoned a Post-Dispatch reporter and asked if the Post-Dispatch could ascertain McGraw's whereabouts.

"I want to try to get a job for a trainer," Hornsby said. "I believe McGraw is in Havana and if you get the name of his hotel I'll phone him there."
Three hours later Hornsby called the writer again.

"Transferred" Again.
"Remember I wanted to get Kirby a job with the Giants?" Hornsby asked. "Well, I'm out of a job now. Not exactly out of a job. But I've been traded to the Boston Braves." Hornsby then read a telegram from Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston club, telling him of the transfer and extending the welcome of the club to Hornsby and sending the Fuchs family's regards to Rogers and Mrs. Hornsby.
Last summer McGraw told the Post-Dispatch that he and Stoneham, the owner of the club, had considered Hornsby as a managerial possibility when they obtained him from the Cardinals for Frank Frisch and Jimmy Ring.
At the end of the season McGraw paid further compliments to Hornsby, who during the pennant race had managed the club for long periods, while McGraw was ill or kept away from the team by business.

Another explanation suggested is that the National League, as reprisal for Hornsby's demands when he held a big block of Cardinal stock, and perhaps as punishment for the publicity agent the Moore horse race betting suit, had brought pressure to bear on the New York club to force it to trade Hornsby.

However, it seems impossible that a strong and independent club like the Giants would submit to such a thing. New York is the big money town of the league. For the league to be prosperous it is considered necessary for New York to have a good team and it seems unlikely that the league would weaken its best money-maker to punish an individual.
With no second baseman worthy of the name to replace Hornsby, baseball men generally agree that the Giants' pennant chances for 1928 have been impaired seriously by the loss of Hornsby, the most dangerous batter in the league. Hornsby's contract—with the

Giants has one more year to run.
When he was traded to the Giants after leading the Cardinals to St.
Louis' first pennant and world championship in 40 years, Hornsby signed a two-year contract at a salary estimated as high as $40,- 000 a year. His contract called for extra compensation for his services as captain of the Giants.

The trade of Hornsby forces the conjecture that the Giants have arranged or will consummate a trade for a second baseman and the announcement can be expected in a few days. It would be folly for the Giants to go into battle with any of the second basemen now on the roster. Andy Cohen or C. R. Crawford could not fill Hornsby's shoes.
It may be that the Cincinnati Reds will oblige by giving the Giants Hughie Critz, but then the question arises as to what the Giants could give in return. However, unless a capable second baseman is obtained, the Giants' trading Hornsby, have sacrificed whatever pennant chances they had.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, declined to comment on the trade of Hornsby to the Braves.

Helme Mueller, recently sent to Toledo by the Giants, was asked this morning if he had ever seen any indications of friction between Hornsby and McGraw. Helme was a member of the Giants last sesson.

"They were like two peas from one pod," Mueller replied. "They were together all the time, went to the races together and we all thought Rog would be manager some day. It looked like McGraw finally had found somebody he thought was good enough to handle his job whenever he was away.
Now let me ask one. Why did they send me to Toledo?"

The suggestion has been made that perhaps McGraw resented Hornsby's prominence and preferred that the roster of the Giants contain the name of no man with qualifications to succeed him as leader. However, that can be dismissed summarily. McGraw's reputation is so great that he could manage the Giants as long as he lived. He knew that and so did everybody else.

Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the Cardinals, said the natural reaction to the trade, aside from surprise, was that the Giants must have had some good and strong reason for trading Hornsby and that the question of what was obtained in exchange appeared to have been secondary.

"The trade may be good for the Giants and it may be good for Boston," Rickey said, "but of course, in weighing the intrinsic value of the men involved, there can only be one answer."

"At one time I offered to trade Hornsby to the Giants for Frisch and $100,000. McGraw turned the proposition down flat and at that time Frisch had played only a few games. McGraw's estimate of Frisch's value increased steadily until last year. Then he thought he made a great trade when he obtained Hornsby. Now after one short year and one in which Hornsby did excellent work, he is traded. I expect the Giants to make another trade for a second baseman, though Andy Cohen is a remarkable player and McGraw may be counting on him as the New York second baseman."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, Jan. 11.—Rogers Hornsby, second baseman and captain of the New York Giants, who has been traded to the Boston Braves in exchange for Catcher
Francis Hogan and Outfielder

James Welch, will be appointed captain of the Braves. Manager

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL!

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take.
Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles.
Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for it."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or when you even suspect the approach of constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.
See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease!

The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature to genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know as to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or presumptive mother.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, if desired. This makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with an ease and promptness that is really astonishing.

15 MORE BODIES TAKEN FROM S-4; 8 STILL IN CRAFT

Torpedo Compartment, in Which Six Men Survived for While, to Be Opened Later.

By the Associated Press. PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Jan. 11.—Fifteen bodies of members of the crew of the sunken submarine S-4 were recovered today by eight divers, who descended and thoroughly examined the submarine's battery compartment. This brought the total to 27. Only two bodies, except those of the six men who died in the torpedo compartment, remained unaccounted for. Officers directing the salvaging operations expressed the opinion that these two would be brought to the surface before work was suspended tonight.

According to the plans of the salvaging officers, the S-4's torpedo compartment would not be opened until the submarine was raised and dry-docked.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Jan. 11.—Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the first naval district, Boston, testified today before the Naval Court of Inquiry investigating the S-4 disaster.

The Admiral said the first news of the collision between the coast guard destroyer Paulding and "an unknown submarine" came by telephone from the coast guard radio station at Nahant at 3:49 p. m. Dec. 17. At 5:50 p. m. a message came from the Paulding by radio to the same effect.

Andrews said he had telephone calls put in immediately to New London, Conn., Portsmouth Naval Yard, New York and Washington. He also telephoned Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commanding the new London submarine base. Lifting apparatus was requested from New York and New London.

Wanted Quick Action. "In my various calls I was animated by a desire to get responsible officers at the various places so that action and response might be quicker," the witness said.

At 5:18 it was learned the S-4 had been operating submerged at the time of the collision. This came from the Paulding and Wadsworth by radio, he said.

A deadly percentage of carbon dioxide had poisoned the air in the torpedo room of the S-4 before rescuers could pump oxygen to six men imprisoned there the naval court was told yesterday.

Lieut. C. J. Flotte, who acted as medical officer in the salvage operations, made public the result of tests of air from the torpedo room after air lines had been attached to the listening tube on the night of Dec. 21. The tests showed 7 per cent of carbon dioxide.

"Life could not have existed when the carbon dioxide reached this percentage," Dr. Flotte said. "Three per cent of this gas is considered highly dangerous to life."

"There was not only the question of the high percentage of carbon dioxide to be considered, but the low temperature of the water, which was 34 degrees. Despite the exposure the six men had existed for 72 hours in this low temperature with 18 inches of water on the floor, without food, water, or proper clothing. All of these things contributed to hasten the end."

Not Much Chance of Rescue. "Do you think that by blowing air into the room at that time there was a chance of reviving any of the personnel?" asked Commander Leslie E. Bratton, judge advocate.

"I doubt it very much," the witness said. "It was done Wednesday night, but they knew there was no chance to save the men inside."

"Would you say from a medical standpoint that from the time the test showed 7 per cent of carbon dioxide?"

How Well Do You Know It?

THE FRED MEDART MANUFACTURING CO.

The Fred Medart Manufacturing Company was founded in 1875 when Fred Medart, himself a renowned gymnast, began building gymnastic apparatus from his first-hand knowledge of practical requirements.

Medart's gymnastic apparatus soon gained a nation-wide recognition. From the manufacturing of gymnastic apparatus developed many other lines. The Fred Medart Company is now producing playground equipment, steel lockers, steel shelving and steel cabinets serving every type of industry in every part of the country. The Fred Medart Company is the largest concern of its kind in the country.

During its fifty years' promotion of healthful sport and exercise, the company has more than realized the ideals of its founder. The fact that hundreds of thousands and hundreds of playgrounds are using and buying Medart equipment speaks eloquently of the part it plays in keeping the nation fit.

Every day this space will be devoted to some one particular manufacturing concern of industry which is contributing to the dynamic growth of St. Louis.

CRIMINAL TENDENCY CURED, DOCTORS SAY

Operations for Sinus and Tonsil Affections Performed on Auto Thief.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—What lawyers and physicians term one of the most significant experiments in the state's legal history entered its final phase yesterday in Richmond County Court when County Judge Harry Tiernan permitted Edward D. Lyle, 23 years old, to plead guilty of petit larceny, although Lyle had been indicted for first degree robbery and assault.

Lyle was accused of having stolen a 2000 automobile from A. G. Weaver, automobile salesman of New Brighton, at the point of a gun on a demonstration trip. Apprehended in possession of the stolen car, arrested and identified by Weaver, Lyle was accompanied into court March 31 by two physicians, Dr. William B. Pritchard, an alienist for the prosecution in the Thaw trial, and Dr. John McCoy, a nose specialist.

They testified that a sinus trouble had caused partial cessation of the blood circulation in Lyle's brain, causing irrepressible criminal tendencies. City Magistrate William Crook of the Stapleton court reduced bail from $25,000 to $5000 and put the case over, while he literally sentenced the youth to undergo operations to remove the sinus trouble.

After the operation, Dr. McCoy found that this trouble was the least that was affecting Lyle, and an operation for infected tonsils, coupled with the extraction of five abscessed teeth and treatment for intestinal trouble and abnormal blood pressure followed. The physicians reported that the experiment was successful.

Lyle went on trial Nov. 14, last, and pleaded not guilty of the indictment before Judge Tiernan. It found guilty, he faced a minimum term of 15 years in Sing Sing. He was held for trial and yesterday Judge Tiernan allowed him to plead guilty of petit larceny and remanded him for sentence Jan. 20.

It is within Judge Tiernan's jurisdiction to suspend sentence or place Lyle on probation.

dioxide there was no life in the compartment?

"I would say they were all dead without question."

Flotte estimated the free air in the torpedo room of the S-4, together with the oxygen bottle, might have maintained life for from 12 to 18 hours, this depending on the activity of the men, the amount of food and other factors. After that period, he said, there would be present in the air a lethal proportion of carbon dioxide. He added that the oxygen in the torpedo room might have lasted three or four days had there been an unlimited supply of soda lime present.

Everything Possible Done.

"While I was at Provincetown everything that was humanly possible was done," Lieut. Flotte said in conclusion. "I do not believe that anybody could have done any better."

WHEN DIZZY OR "HEADACHY"

Texas Man Tells How He Gets Relief by Taking Thedford's Black-Draught for Biliousness and Constipation.

San Antonio, Texas.—Mr. J. W. Hough, of 418 Perez Street, this city, says that in raising his ten children, Thedford's Black-Draught had helped relieve many little ills due to indigestion, constipation or biliousness. "About all I ever used for them was this reliable medicine," says Mr. Hough.

"I have taken it myself, frequently. We always have it in the house to use for colds and biliousness. It will ward off a bad cold by cleaning out the system."

"We have found nothing to equal Black-Draught as a family medicine. Quick relief follows its use for constipation."

"Whenever I feel dizzy or 'head-achy' in the morning, I do not let the condition run on, but get down the package of Black-Draught and take a dose."

"Mrs. Hough thinks as highly of Black-Draught as I do. Recently a neighbor came to her, complaining that she was so dizzy she could not go to work. Mrs. Hough gave her Black-Draught, and in a couple of hours she had gone to attend to her business. It is a wonderful aid to health."

THREE NEW SCHOOLS LIKELY TO BE BUILT

Education Board Gets Another Resolution to Limit Superintendent's Power.

The Board of Education voted last night to hold a special meeting as soon as John J. Maddox, Superintendent of Instruction, recovers from an illness, to revise and accelerate its building program, likely to provide for the immediate construction of the Kennard school, Columbus school, destroyed in the tornado, and the West Belle School for Negroes.

The board, at its special meeting, is likely to reserve a previous action establishing the Bryan Mulvaney school at Tower Grove and Shaw avenues as an intermediate school, thus necessitating the construction of a new elementary school in the Shaw tract, south of the Missouri Botanical Gardens. This in turn will affect the location of the new Kennard school, recommended by the superintendent to be at a remote site in Kingshighway Hills, and is likely to result in a decision to build the Kennard school on the present site of the Kennard school at Kingshighway and Arsenal street, as desired by a majority of parents of children in that district.

The board voted, 6 to 5 to limit attendance, at summer schools to pupils who have been retarded for physical or other reasons.

More Heckling of Maddox.

As has been the case for more than a year, last night's meeting brought heckling of the Superintendent even though he was absent. Henry Heier, chairman of the Instruction Committee, withdrew his resolution restoring administration of the instruction department to six assistant superintendents, instead of three. He offered a long substitute, likewise restoring the six-assistant plan and placing hopes upon the superintendent in the conduct of his office. The proposed rule makes it mandatory that the superintendent hold at least one conference a week with his assistants on dates fixed and unchangeable for 12 months. Board members are privileged to attend these meetings, without right of debate or discussion. The duties of the six assistants are defined and the superintendent is compelled to assign them as directed. Under the board rules Heier's measure was laid over for 30 days without debate.

Armand Miller, principal of Roosevelt High School, was appointed assistant principal of Harris Teachers' College at a reduced salary. Clarence Orr was rejected as head assistant at McKinley Intermediate School.

Midyear graduation dates were set as follows:

Harris Teachers' College, Jan. 27, 8 p. m., at Soldan High School.
Beaumont High School, Jan. 27, 4 p. m.
Central High School, Jan. 26, 8 p. m., at Beaumont High School.
Cleveland High School, Jan. 26, 8:15 p. m.
Roosevelt High School, Jan. 27, 8 p. m.
Soldan High School, Jan. 26, 10 a. m.
Summer High School, Jan. 26, 8 p. m.
Vashon High School, Jan. 24, 8 p. m.

30 Days for Drunken Driving.
Lawrence Pease, 37 years old, a Negro, 3516 Lawton boulevard, was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse and fined $100 by Police Judge Beck this morning on charges of driving while intoxicated, and leaving the scene of an accident. The case resulted from an automobile collision at Twenty-first street and Franklin avenue last Saturday. He will appeal.

U. S. PADLOCK ORDER MODIFIED

Federal Judge Wham at East St. Louis yesterday modified the padlock order on 1620 West Main street, East St. Louis, because the owner, Peter H. Rust of Belleville, testified he had warned the tenant last summer to quit selling whisky there. Soon after the warning, Rust said, prohibition agents raised the place.

The padlock was taken off the second floor and its application to the first floor was shortened to March 1. The original order, issued several months ago, was for one year.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

MAYOR FOR TRUSTEES FOR CITY HOSPITALS

Says He Upholds Every Proposal by Citizens' Committee in Report.

Addressing an open luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday at which the findings of a survey of public health and hospital facilities in St. Louis were reported in behalf of a Citizens' Committee, Mayor Miller declared he was in favor "without restriction" of every suggestion made in the report.

Among numerous recommendations resulting from the survey, affecting the municipality and private agencies, was one for a board of trustees to control municipal hospitals instead of the Hospital Commissioner; one for erection of the new Negro hospital adjacent to City Hospital, one for a new milk control ordinance, and many varied improvements in practice and buildings.

"If we had the funds available, a great many of the improvements would have been made already," the Mayor said. "I am fully in accord with this movement and will do everything in my power to see that everything possible is done for betterment of our health work."

Public Must Help.

The Mayor cautioned that public sentiment will be essential to success of the program. Particular pressure from the public is needed, he declared, to get a favorable report from a Board of Aldermen committee on a bill that has lain dormant for seven months to repeal an ordinance locating the Negro hospital, for which bond money is available, in the Sumner High district. The Mayor announced he would not sign any ordinance to place the Negro institution anywhere but adjoining the City Hospital, where medical and administrative work can be amalgamated.

Similarly, the Mayor said, public pressure is needed to get a favorable report from an Aldermanic committee on the new milk pasteurization bill. "This has not been reported out," he asserted, "because some of the smaller dairies seem to have an unfortunate influence with the committee."

Dr. W. F. Walker, field director of the American Public Health Association, who had charge of the survey for the Citizens' Committee, and Dr. Haven Emerson, professor of public health at Columbia University, who was hospital consultant in the survey, stressed, in addresses at the luncheon, the need for development of medical social service and care for convalescents and chronic invalids in St. Louis.

Morale Branch of Service, "medical social service," said Dr. Emerson, "is the morale branch of hospital service. It is not a collection agency. It furnishes physicians with needed information about home conditions, and the like. It should be built up and improved."

Facilities for proper and economical care of convalescent and chronic patients are badly lacking, the speakers maintained. Care of these types in regular hospitals is too expensive, interfering with proper service of the hospitals and militates against the various types of patients, they explained.

The remarks of both physicians emphasized the need for more municipal revenue, a current subject of discussion.

and proprietary institutions and those handling communicable diseases, which are really preventive agencies, as they prevent spread of contagion. Of this, $2,185,000 is paid by the city."

Maternal life is safer here than in most cities of the nation, Dr. Emerson remarked, and the chances of survival of infants under one month of age are better.

Chest Colds

Cold on the chest means congestion with possible serious complications. This congestion in bronchial tubes and air passages must be relieved by bringing fresh blood to the congested parts. The penetrating quality of BAUME BENQUE (pronounced Ben-Gay) stimulates outer-chest circulation, lessening deeper congestion, bringing prompt relief.

If you do not get prompt relief you should consult a physician.

BUILDING PLANS OF NAVAL BOARD

Tells House Committee
This Nation Needs
Cruiser Tonnage, Rega less of Other Powers.

DENIES PROJECT IS COMPETITIVE

Quotes Report to Sho Present Fleet Is Ina
quate to Protect Forei Commerce.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Striving his own belief that "America needs a first-class navy," Secretary Wilbur placed today before the House Naval Committee his personal reasons and those of the Navy General Board for asking Congress to authorize a $125,000,000 new warship construction program.

In the preparation of this program the General Board has carefully considered the need of the Government for its naval defense, he said. "It is true that in determining this need the General Board at all times has taken into consideration the condition of other navies and their construction and replacement program, so as they are known to us."

"Future wars must be fought largely by vessels completed at the beginning of the war," General Board announced at the Geneva Conference that she needed about 600,000 tons of vessels of the cruiser class. Our original proposal at Geneva was for cruiser tonnage of between 250,000 and 300,000 tons, a tonnage less than we felt necessary for our fleet. We were willing to accept the hazard of building less tonnage than needed if the other Powers would accept similar hazards.

"Great Britain was not willing to accept this limitation, but felt the need for the larger tonnage cruisers she proposed to be a persuasive for the protection of national interests."

America Needs Tonnage. "The insistence of Great Britain and of her naval experts, and her delegates at the Geneva Conference upon her absolute need for a larger tonnage of cruisers regardless of the naval program other powers, most persuasive evidence that we also have a definite need for cruiser tonnage, regardless of the program of other powers, if we are to have a well rounded fleet for our defense, also that such a program for us is no sense competitive."

The secretary said that the program proposing construction of 10 cruisers, five aircraft carriers, six destroyer leaders and 32 submarines was "in no sense competitive but is based upon the needs of the Navy as determined by the Secretary of the Navy upon the technical advice of the general board." "The President is opposed to competitive building," he continued. "Congress has also manifested its unwillingness to engage in competitive building."

"We do not ask you to build certain number of tons of any type of vessel, for the reason that Great Britain has that number tons or because to do so would bring us up to a parity with Great Britain; nor do we ask you to construct a certain amount of tonnage in order that we may be on a parity with Japan."

Advice of General Board. "The General Board has advised the Secretary of the Navy following the program proposed. If carried out, will create a properly constituted fleet, will furnish sufficient strength to insure the protection of the legal rights of our citizens under international law, provide refuge in time of disorder, protect commerce, preserve our ocean routes of trade and provide adequate national defense."

We have not such a fleet at the present time. Each postponement of the undertaking increases the already pronounced inadequacy still further into the future. Delay in building up the fleet to the standard of its requirements deprives the country of an adequate national defense for period of years, and will entail extraordinary financial burden in future years. Prompt adoption of the program proposed will result in a fleet adequate for national defense and will avoid excessive peak loads in future financial demands.

The General Board's report called attention to what it was the need of maintaining shipbuilding industry and adding "lack of modern cruisers, very serious and constitutes the navy's greatest weakness today."

Pearl Harbor of Cruisers. "Every war game, which played at the War College or in the out in practice on the sea," the board's report continued.

PART TWO.

WILBUR UPHOLDS BUILDING PLANS OF NAVAL BOARD

Tells House Committee
This Nation Needs Big Cruiser Tonnage, Regardless of Other Powers.

DENIES PROJECT
IS COMPETITIVE

Quotes Report to Show Present Fleet Is Inadequate to Protect Foreign Commerce.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Stressing his own belief that "America needs a first-class navy," Secretary Wilbur placed today before the House Naval Committee his personal reasons and those of the Naval General Board for asking Congress to authorize a $725,000, 000 new warship construction program.

"In the preparation of this program the General Board has primarily considered the need of this Government for its naval defense," he said. "It is true that determining this need the General Board at all times has taken into consideration the condition of other navies and their construction and replacement program, so far as they are known to us."

"Future wars must be fought largely by vessels completed at the beginning of the war. Great Britain announced at the Geneva Conference that she needed about 600,000 tons of vessels of the cruiser class. Our original proposal at Geneva was for cruiser tonnage of between 250,000 and 300,000 tons, a tonnage less than we felt necessary for our fleet. We were willing to accept the hazard of building less tonnage than we needed if the other Powers would accept similar hazards.

"Great Britain was not willing to accept this limitation but felt the need for the larger tonnage of cruisers she proposed to be imperative for the protection of her national interests.

"America Needs Tonnage."
The insistence of Great Britain and of her naval experts, and of her delegates at the Geneva Conference upon her absolute need for a larger tonnage of cruisers, regardless of the naval program of other powers, most persuasive evidence that we also have a definite need for cruiser tonnage, regardless of the program of other powers. If we are to have a well-rounded fleet for our defense, and also that such a program for us is in no sense competitive."

The secretary said that the program proposing construction of 25 cruisers, five aircraft carriers, nine destroyer leaders and 32 submarines was "in no sense competitive, but is based upon the needs of our Navy as determined by the technical advice of the general board."

"The President is opposed to competitive building," he continued. "Congress has also manifested its unwillingness to engage in competitive building."

"We do not ask you to build a certain number of tons of each type of vessel, for the reason that Great Britain has that number of tons or because to do so would bring us up to a parity with Great Britain; nor do we ask you to construct a certain amount of tonnage in order that we may be on a 2-3 ratio with Japan."

"The General Board has advised the Secretary of the Navy follows:
The program proposed, if carried out, will create a properly constituted fleet, will furnish sufficient strength to insure the protection of the legal rights of our citizens under international law, provide refuge in time of disorder, protect commerce, preserve our ocean routes of trade, and provide adequate national defense."

"We have not such a fleet at the present time. Each possibility of the undertaking of essential new construction increases the already pronounced inadequacy still further into the future."

Delay in building up the fleet to the standard of its requirements deprives the country of an adequate national defense for a period of years, and will entail extraordinary financial burdens in future years. Prompt action will result in a fleet adequate for national defense and will avoid excessive peak loads in future financial demands.

The General Board's report called attention to what it said was the need of maintaining a shipbuilding industry and added that "lack of modern cruisers is very serious and constitutes the navy's greatest weakness today."

"Every war game, whether played at the War College or carried out in practice on the high seas," the board's report continued,

How Kansas City Is Squeezed Between Two Gas Corporations Owned by the Same Persons

Consumers Pay 95 Cents a Thousand Cubic Feet for Natural Product Costing 3 Cents in Field.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 11.—
The City Council of Kansas City has granted a franchise for a new company to compete with the Kansas City Gas Co. in supplying natural gas and in this fact citizens see some hope for relief from an intolerable situation in which they have acquiesced for years. The Kansas City Gas Co. has been suspected that 95 cents a 1000 feet is too high a price for natural gas. That is approximately the price other comparable cities pay for artificial gas. Yet the city has been balked on every legal avenue along which it has sought to proceed to a determination of what is a fair price.

Its importance lies in the fact that three separate companies participate in bringing in the gas. The companies are separate in incorporation only. All are owned by the same group, who therefore enjoy the profitable privilege of making gas and selling it at a profit.
Contracts that make up the price of gas, but which are beyond the restraint of the Public Service Commission and any other legal agency. In effect, it means that the owning group can charge whatever price they desire and there is no one to say them nay.

Owned by Doherty Interests.
The Kansas City Gas Co., which distributes the gas to homes, is owned by the H. L. Doherty Interests. Doherty is a large operator of public utilities through the middle West.

The distributing company buys
the gas from the Kansas Natural Gas Co., which also is owned by the Doherty interests. The Kansas Natural Gas Co. gets the gas in Oklahoma and Texas from the Empire Gas and Fuel Co., still another Doherty company.

Doherty pays, out of the distributing company, 49 cents a 1000 feet to his pipe line company, the Kansas Natural. He has not divulged what he pays his Empire company for the gas in the fields, but city officials most familiar with the situation believe it is not more than 3 cents a 1000 feet.

Hence, it is regarded that the "fat" company is the Kansas Natural Gas, which pays about 3 cents and sells for 40. Some light is thrown upon the reasonableness of the 40-cent charge by the fact that the new gas company which has been franchised proposes to bring natural gas approximately the same distance from Texas and declares that it will sell to Doherty's distributing company at 25 cents.
Of course, Doherty will not accept any such offer. He prefers to pay himself 49 cents and pass the bill on to the public of Kansas City.

Offers Lower Prices.
The new company has published a schedule of rates it says it will charge large industrial users. The price ranges from 30 to 50 cents depending on the amount taken.

Kansas City has taken its troubles to the Missouri Public Service Commission. That body replied it had no jurisdiction over the 40-cent contract because the Kansas Natural Gas Co. was a Kansas utility. The Kansas commission said that it had no jurisdiction because the company's pipe line originated outside the state. There is no Federal control over utilities operating in interstate business.

Recently John T. Barker, City Counselor, asked of Attorney-General Gregory the required use of his name to bring quo warranto proceedings in the Missouri Supreme Court in the hope that the Court would cancel the 40-cent contract as inimical to public policy and perhaps would dictate the making of a new contract at a lower price.
So far, Gregory has not consented to use of his name and it is feared his silence means that he will not consent.

"emphasizes the need for an increase in number of vessels of this type. Their duties in peace are of a wide variety, not the least of which is aid to our overseas trade.
Our merchants and manufacturers must not only hold the foreign markets, they have gained, but as European conditions return to normal we must ever seek new markets for their output. If our prosperity is to continue."

"Showing the flag has a very marked influence upon their endeavors, and the measure of their success is influenced in no small degree by the prestige which up-to-date and smart modern cruisers create and reflect."

22 Out-of-Date Ships.
The general board's report added that there are 22 cruisers of a total displacement of 164,100 carried in a decommissioned status that should be replaced, for "all lack speed, displacement and general fitness for modern service."
The report also said that the efficiency of destroyer squadrons as a whole "suffers from the lack of speed, displacement and general fitness for modern service."

"The President is opposed to competitive building," he continued. "Congress has also manifested its unwillingness to engage
in competitive building."

"We do not ask you to build a

1.15 CTS. FOR FARMER IN 8-CT. LOAF OF BREAD

5.11 Cents Goes to Baker,
U. S. Trade Board's Report Shows.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A one-pound loaf of bread cost the American family 8.55 cents over a three-year period recently studied by the Federal Trade Commission, with the farmer who raised the wheat receiving 1.15 cents and the baker 5.11 cents of the amount.

In a table showing the distribution of the 8.55 cents paid out by the American householder for his pound loaf, the commission disclosed the miller received the smallest share, .64 cents, with the grocer getting 1.28 cents, and the railroads and other handlers .60 cents.

With nearly half the bread now consumed in the United States produced by commercial bakeries and with three companies controlling about 20 per cent of that output, the commission found that competition was kept although price cutting wars had resulted in price fixing agreements in some cities.

Wholesale Prices Dropped.
Wholesale bread prices have shown a pronounced decline from the high levels of 1920, with prices following the trend of flour prices during that period, the commission found.

It further observed "abundant potential competition" in the flour milling industry, but there were "frequent efforts to limit production among millers by agreements and understandings to sell at a profit" as well as by exchange of information on selling prices and by other means.

The Ward, General and Continental corporations, it was established, conduct about 150 bakeries with an estimated output of almost 20 per cent of the total commercial bread production in the United States.

Prices of wholesale bakers were comparatively high in the six years from 1920 through 1925, the report stated. The rate of return on the total baking investment, as shown by the companies' books or as reported to the commission, was 14.90 per cent, and the investment, as revealed by the commission to eliminate intangibles and appreciation, averaged more than 25 per cent.

GENERAL ELECTRIC HAS NO OBJECTION TO POWER INQUIRY

Owen D. Young, Chairman of Board, Gives Attitude of His Concern Toward Walsh Proposal.

WANTS INVESTIGATION TO BE NON-PARTISAN

Cheaper Electricity Would Help His Firm's Business in Selling Equipment and Supplies, He Says.

By BASIL MANLY,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The attitude of the General Electric Co., the dominant factor in the electrical industry, toward Government investigations was made clear today in a statement to the writer for the Post-Dispatch by Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of directors of that corporation. The statement was made in response to a question regarding the position of the General Electric Co. with reference to the resolution introduced by Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.), Montana, for an investigation by the United States Senate of the financing of public utility corporations and the extent to which the funds of such corporations have been used to influence public opinion and control elections.

This resolution, now in the hands of the Committee on Interstate Commerce to which it was referred by a slender majority of the Senate. Hearings on the Walsh resolution have been set for Jan. 16, after which the committee will decide whether to report it back to the Senate for adoption.

"As to the power and light industry," Young declared, "I believe the industry of the whole is soundly financed and efficiently managed.
If, however, there has been unsound financing or other unwise proceedings in the promotion of corporations, it is desirable that the facts should be known so that any tendencies in that direction may be corrected. Any investigation, however, should be specific and nonpartisan and have for its object full and full disclosure of the facts."

Favors Lower Rates.
"As far as the General Electric Co. is concerned, it is interested solely in the manufacture and sale of electrical machinery, equipment and supplies. It desires to see the widest possible market developed for such products. It is in the interest of this corporation, therefore, that the price of electricity should be lowered as rapidly as is possible, and that the cost of production be kept as low as possible.
Through research, the General Electric Co. is making its contribution toward such lower costs."

The impression prevalent in Washington is that the electrical industry as a whole is hostile to an investigation of its affairs. This impression has been created by the activities of certain elements in the industry, generally referred to as the "power lobby," in opposing the Walsh resolution, and using its influence to have it sent to the Committee on Interstate Commerce, which Senator Watson (Rep.) of Indiana is chairman. This was done, it was charged on the floor of the Senate by Senator Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana for the purpose of obstructing the committee's consideration by the Senate.

Gives Views on Inquiries.
The statement made today by Young is the first that has been made publicly by him or any other representative of the General Electric Co. with reference to this subject since the introduction of the Walsh resolution. Young said, however, the statement embodies the established policy of the General Electric Co. toward investigations by properly constituted governmental bodies. When the Federal Trade Commission recently was directed by the Senate to investigate the extent to which the control of the electric light and power industry was coming concentrated in a relatively few corporations, the General Electric Co. threw its books and records
open to the commission.

Young, who directs the affairs of the General Electric Co. is one of the youngest of the chief executives of great American enterprises. In New York financial circles he frequently is described as representing a new spirit in American business. This was manifested when the General Electric Co., under his direction, sold the forced itself from the Electric Bond and Share Co., a former subsidiary, which had become one of the largest corporations in the public utility field. It was felt that it was unwise and undesirable for the General Electric Co., the largest manufacturer of electrical machinery and equipment, to be in the position of controlling, through

Treasury Approves Plan for Postoffice and Federal Headquarters — To Recommend Appropriation.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Recommendations for a new $6,225,000 Federal building in St. Louis and a $2,000,000 Postoffice building will be sent to the House Appropriations Committee this month by the Treasury Department as the result of a conference today between Carl T. Scheneman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Senator Hawes, and the three St. Louis Congressmen.

The question of sites for the new Federal buildings was not discussed at the conference. Schen-eman told the St. Louisans that this problem, which has delayed the St.
Louis building program, could be solved after Congress had appropriated the funds. He said all the needs of St. Louis had been studied by the Treasury Department and that he could give assurance that the Treasury's program would be advised of the property.

Sale of the Federal Government's property in St. Louis also will be recommended to Congress by the Treasury Department. This property includes the Federal Building at Eighth and Olive streets, the appraiser's store building at Third and Olive streets and the vacant site at Fourth and Chestnut streets. Representative Cochran already has introduced a bill providing for the sale of these properties. He said today he would not press his bill

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight democracy of all parties, oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Dr. Nelson on Hickman.

It is not often that I have to take issue with an editorial in the Post-Dispatch, but I certainly must with the one in reference to the article which Dr. William Nelson wrote for another evening paper, regarding Hickman.

Will you permit me to state in a few words the gist of what Dr. Nelson says, and what I believe to be the facts?

The published reports of the Hickman case indicate that Hickman suffers from arrested emotional or sexual development. With an adult body and average intelligence for his age, his emotions are those of the 10-year-old boy who takes pleasure in torturing. Killing him, while it will satisfy public opinion, will not cure others who suffer from the same derangement, but whose acts are not so atrocious. Punishment of individuals like Hickman has absolutely no effect on other individuals of this type. Cure may be possible, but not in penitentiaries as they are now organized. A cure, if practical, requires study and treatment by scientists who make a specialty of this field. It is not safe for individuals like Hickman to be at large, but if they are to be chloroformed do it, not in the name of punishment, but in recognition of the fact that society has as yet no means of detecting such cases before harm is done, nor proper means of segregating them after tragedies like this have occurred.

I admire the courage of a public official like Dr. Nelson. He gives what he believes to be the modern scientific and commonsense opinion in regard to Lockwood-Hickman cases, in the hope that the painful suffering and death of the little Parker maiden, and the agony of her family, may be not altogether in vain.

The Post-Dispatch has an excellent habit of being right pretty much of the time, so I feel sure that after this slight misunderstanding in regard to Dr. Nelson, the Post-Dispatch will sometimes be its own master, and give to the public what is known at the present time by the students of criminology of the other wise incompatible Lockwood-Hickman cases.

The Case of Paroleman Joseph Knowles.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE been waiting to see a protest in your columns against the exorbitant fee our police department. First the police department asks an officer a question, he would have the right to answer on the ground of freedom of speech. But the officer had the backbone to give his honest opinion and he was fined $25. I would like to have some one explain to me under what law they can fine a man for free speech.

This officer merely expressed his personal views on prohibition, which he has a perfect right to do as an American citizen. He did not refuse to do his duty as an officer of the law. He was not sent out to make any arrest for law violation. Let us get it clear as to who is running our police department. Maybe old Bill Thompson is right. From all indications it would seem so.

Slack, Mo.
Strikes the Nail on the Head.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE latest suggestion made by the Spirit of St. Louis Memorial Committee to take care of the Lindbergh trophies at Jefferson Memorial seems to strike the nail on the head. It is one of the finest collections of trophies in the world and it is being added to, every day. The fact that the Missouri Historical Society has to ask for help with which to maintain it, seems unreasonable. If the ladies working for the Lindbergh Memorial will take hold of this collection, pay expenses for the time being at least, and provide some reasonable cases which could be placed in the beautiful west wing of the Jefferson Memorial, it would bring "various praise and credit to their undertaking. Yours very truly,

A. E. FORBES.

Commercialization.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
IN YOUR report of a Billy Sunday speech, you quote him as saying that professional baseball has become commercialized until it can hardly be called a sport. Evangelism, in my opinion, has been commercialized to a greater extent.

A BASEBALL FAN.

AN APPEAL TO THE STATE.

The Post-Dispatch joins the City Counselor in his protest to the Public Service Commission against letting J. K. Newman and his associates hand the street car system of St. Louis over to a holding company set up by them in Delaware, that is a foreign corporation over which the Commission has no control.

Mr. Muench, the City Counselor, has already reminded the Commission that another holding company, the A. T. & T., is taking 4 per cent of the gross earnings of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in St. Louis, a toll which must be absorbed by telephone rates. The Commission cannot have forgotten how futilely it attempted in this instance to deal with a foreign corporation. The Post-Dispatch would like to remind it that the reorganizers of the street car system no more need a holding company than they need a new franchise. They have no need for either to carry on the profitable business of running the street cars of St. Louis, for which they enjoy the exclusive privilege.

Another striking example of the State's inability to protect the public from exploiters operating under two or more corporate names is found in Kansas City, where the gas distributing company, owned by H. L. Doherty, buys its gas from an interstate pipe line company also owned by Doherty. It bases its rates to Kansas City consumers on the price it pays its twin company. This latter price is beyond the jurisdiction of the State Commission, and since there is no Federal control over sales rates charged by interstate utility corporations Kansas City has no redress.

A measure of the extortion under which Kansas City has suffered is found in these facts: The Doherty distributing company pays the Doherty pipe line company 40 cents a thousand feet for gas and charges the consumer a maximum of 95 cents. A new company, which proposes to compete, declares that it will pipe gas from the same natural field and sell it to Doherty's distributing company in Kansas City at 25 cents. Failing that, it proposes to distribute the gas to consumers at from 30 to 50 cents, depending upon the amount taken. Doherty prefers to pay himself 40 cents through the twin company. The consumer, of course, pays the bill.

The Commission has a chance to save the street railways of St. Louis from such orgies as those in which as many as six holding companies have been pyramided upon a single property. What is more important, it has an opportunity to retain an important and vital control, and that chance it will never have again if it weakens now.

BRAVO FOR PASTE.

The melancholy days have come for the deft and daring gentry of France who are known in harsh police terminology as jewel thieves. All that glitters is no longer diamonds, or rubies, or sapphires. The pensive pearl, even, like her flashier sisters, is too often synthetic. The world of fashion has gone phoney. The daughters of Capua have taken to wearing imitation baubles. De Maupassant was something of a prophet in that tragic bit of fiction, "The Necklace." Thus the hypocrisy of the great world has soured a segment of the underworld. Three braves for paste.

THE STONE WALL.

After a comprehensive survey, the American Public Health Institute has declared St. Louis behind the times in public health work, thereby confirming what we ourselves have known for a long time. Yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce these deficiencies were described in particularly and illustrated with colored charts, all very interesting. We have too much tuberculosis, too much communicable disease and so on. There are ways to ameliorate these conditions, and these ways are outlined in the survey. However, the most interesting part of the meeting was Mayor Miller's brief talk. He said he had looked over the survey, had talked with the specialists who prepared it and was in hearty accord with it; moreover, many of the things proposed would already have been done if the city had had the money. That was the most interesting part of the meeting because, unless that condition is changed, there is no use talking about improvement in public health or any other kind of improvement in St. Louis.

It was brought out that St. Louis, publicly and privately, is spending 91 cents per capita for public health. Other cities of the same class are spending from $1.59 to $2. We will continue to spend only 91 cents until the city's archaic tax rate of $1.35 for municipal purposes is lifted. That is the stone wall against which all efforts to improve conditions in St. Louis are shattered. It is the obstacle which must be removed before we can discuss with any profit our problems of public health, street paving and other aspects of city government in which we are lagging.

Our peace prophets, it might be added, are not without honor save in their own country.

NICARAGUA REVOLTS.

One reason why the Post-Dispatch has felt we should remove our armed forces from Nicaragua is that we have been fearful a time would come when it would not be easy to withdraw them.

That time has apparently come. The defection from our support is spreading to the local constabulary and the mountain towns. It is not a nice prospect that we face down there. Reinforcements are hurrying to the support of our beleaguered garrisons, and it goes without saying that in time Nicaragua will be conquered.

We shall then have time to recapitulate, to consider whether it was worth what it cost thus ruthlessly to impose ourselves upon that little country. The Post-Dispatch has never denied the obligation of the United States to protect in Nicaragua our own nationals and their property, as well as the nationals and property of other nations established by the Monroe Doctrine from using force in Latin America. It has seriously questioned the wisdom of intervening in domestic politics and maintaining at all cost the present Nicaraguan Government to the exclusion of what seems to have been the popular party.

All Latin America is against us in the Nicaraguan adventure. All the principal newspapers in that part of the world are against us. None of them denies our obligation. All of them deny our right to say who shall rule in Nicaragua and to take up arms against all dissenters. We will be fortunate if the Pan-American Congress, which convenes within the next 10 days, does not serve to show us how widespread that resentment is.

Messrs. Coolidge and Kellogg have been obdurate. They have not paid the slightest deference to counter opinion, either here or abroad, and the consequence is that we have upon our hands the ugly necessity of conquering Nicaragua in guerrilla warfare. What sort of statesmanship is it that gets us into such messes?

THE GOVERNOR TACKLES THE ROAD PROBLEM.

Gov. Baker is going to appoint a special committee of six to bring about an agreement between the State Highway Commission and the Automobile Club as to the road bond issue to be submitted to the people in the November election. He himself will act as chairman of the committee on which the commission and the club, both of which have agreed to the plan, will be represented.

It is fair to presume that the Governor's influence will prevail in the deliberations and his judgment dictate the conclusion arrived at. Under such circumstances the Governor must, of course, acquaint himself with the facts of the road situation, with the needs developed by traffic expansion, and with public sentiment as to the equities of the case. Information on the first two counts is available. The matter of public sentiment is always more or less a question of judgment, but in this instance there is evidence enough to warrant a fairly accurate deduction.

The paramount requirement, obviously, is an adequate, balanced State highway system, completed as soon as practicable. That means highways that meet the needs of the cities, and it also means a system of farm-to-market roads that meet the needs of the farmers.

It will take a lot of money to do this. In forecasting the amount calculations, no matter by whom made, are liable to error. But surely it is the part of business prudence and foresight to provide enough money for this great enterprise, and provide it in such a way the commission will not have to requisition it unless it is needed.

Other points of difference have to do with taxes and the distribution of funds after the present system is completed. A 10-year guarantee against any increase in the gasoline tax and registration fee has been tentatively mentioned. That ought to be satisfactory to both the commission and the club.

Finally, the matter of distributing the funds remaining after the completion of the present system. There is just one way to devise an acceptable plan of distribution and that is on a basis of equity; a plan that will deal fairly with every county in the State and will also deal fairly with the cities and populous counties which provide the greater part of the money.

That is the road bond problem in its essentials. It must be solved. The Governor and his committee will, we are confident, solve it.

WE SING THE SUNDAY PASS.

The street cars run on Sunday, just the same as through the week, but we have no Sunday rush hour, when the traffic hits a peak. Forgotten then the office, the business that we keep, while some of us go riding and sundry others sleep. The solitary grandeur of the Sunday street car's past; for two bits we can ride about as long as Sundays last. When we weary of the riding and we close our heavy lids, the pass is still transferable to mamma and the kids. So, ho, the Sunday street car pass in merry roundelay; just give the man a quarter and he'll let you ride all day. Sing loud the Sunday street car pass in lilting, swinging ditty; we'll give the man a quarter and we'll ride about the city. Sing, ho, the Sunday street car pass in unrestrained, wild glee, we'll ride around the city till the shining hour of three. But when of riding 'round the town too suddenly we bore, why not let us view the country, say, for 30 cents or more?

BOULDER DAM AND THE POWER LOBBY.

To date the battling average of the great power lobby, headed by ex-Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou, is 1000 per cent. Some time ago, in the first test of its strength, it scored a major victory when the Senate insisted upon sending Senator Walsh's power trust investigation to the Interstate Commerce Committee. Yesterday the lobby scored a second time when a United States Chamber of Commerce committee issued a report opposing the Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam bill or any other bill which seeks to safeguard the Boulder Dam project from the power gang.

To get control of Boulder Dam is one of the latter's primary aims, and this Chamber of Commerce report gives aid and comfort to it. If the arguments of the report were accepted by Congress, another great public property would be lost to the people forever. As the matter stands at present, the Swing-Johnson bill, pending before both houses of Congress, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to erect and operate a hydro-electric power plant with an installed capacity of 1,000,000 horsepower. The plant would have a steady capacity of 550,000 horsepower, or about three times the steady capacity of the Government plant at Muscle Shoals.

We are at the very dawn of the power age and perhaps never before in the history of American industry has there been such a complete anticipation of it by private capital. In fact, the machinery for an exploitation of power has already been set up. As we have pointed out before and as we shall frequently have occasion to mention again, practical control of the power industry is already in the hands of five men or corporations—Innall of Chicago, Ryan of New York, Morgan of New York, Doherty of New York and the General Electric Co.

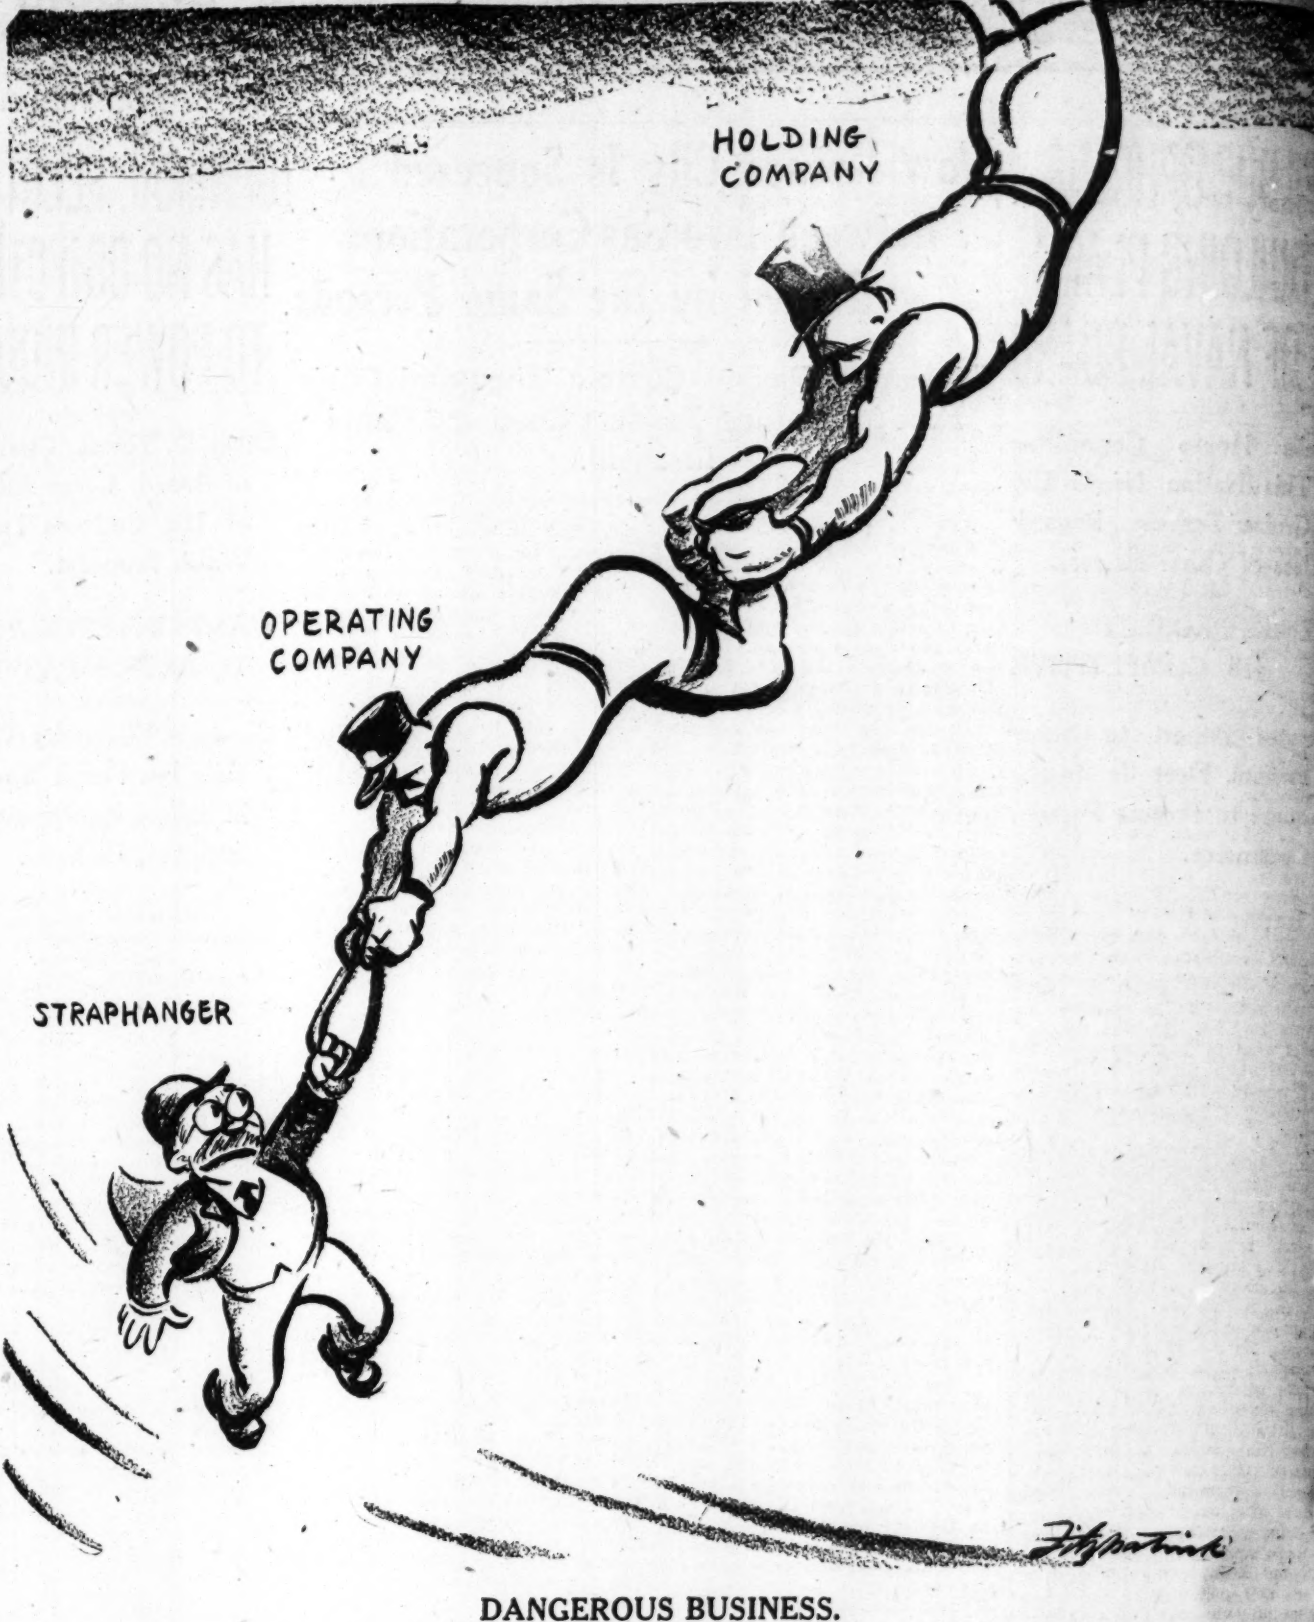

So far the power lobby is doing very well, indeed. The other side, however—the great public forces behind the Swing-Johnson bill—are rolling their guns into position.

THE FORBIDDEN ISSUE.

There is food for deep cogitation, reverie and not a little humor in the spanking given Senator McMaster by his Republican colleagues because he tried to win approval of his resolution for a general reduction of tariff duties.

Yet all the cogitation, reverie and humor in the world will only lead one to agree that justice was on the side of the righteous standpatters who administered this chastisement. For consider the crime of the Senator. With a national election just around the corner, with a Republican war chest to be filled by shaking down the tariff barons, he proposed that the very vulgar vein of Republicanism be punctured. Could baseness become more base? Could ingratitude become viler? Could treachery descend to greater depths?

After the justice of Senator McMaster's lashing has become apparent, one might turn his faculties of cogitation, reverie and humor to finding out why these Republican minute men think it is right to hijack the public for the relief of the manufacturer, but wrong to do so for the relief of the farmer.

Church and State in Mexico

From the New York World.

YESTERDAY The World printed an interview with Bishop Diaz which appears in the current issue of the Commonwealth. The Bishop, who has just returned from Rome, is the authoritative spokesman of the Mexican Bishops in this conflict with the Mexican Government. Bishop Diaz began the interview by saying that he regarded as "very significant" a statement recently made in these columns to the effect that "until there is peace between Church and State in Mexico there will not be complete peace in Mexico and there will not be untroubled understanding between Mexico and the United States."

The World is fully aware how delicate a matter it is for an American newspaper to attempt to discuss the relations between Church and State in a foreign land. Nevertheless we venture to do this, because it must be evident that a solution of this problem is in the highest degree desirable.

OFFICIALLY our Government can do nothing. But unofficially Americans, regardless of their own religious affiliations, can perhaps help to create an atmosphere in which a constructive solution may be found. They are in a position now to speak without fear of being misunderstood in Mexico, for the official dispute between Washington and Mexico City is over. What ever Americans may say about this problem of Church and State is no longer likely to be confused with the controversy over property rights. It is possible to speak disinterestedly and therefore to be listened to sympathetically.

THE conflict between Church and State arises out of the decision of the Calles Government to enforce Article 3 and Article 13 of the Constitution of 1917. The paragraph in Article 3 to which the church objects is one which prohibits what we should call parochial schools: "No religious corporation nor minister of any religion shall establish or direct schools of primary instruction." All primary education in Mexico must, in other words, be secular. Article 13 is even more drastic. It begins by giving the Government "power to exercise in matters of religious worship and outward ecclesiastical form such interventions as by law authorized." It then goes on to say that "the Congress shall not enact any law establishing or forbidding any religion whatsoever." It then provides that marriage is a civil contract. This apparently denies the legal validity of a church marriage. It provides also among other things that ministers of religious creeds are members of a profession which may be regulated by law, that the State Legislatures may fix the quota of ministers of religion in each locality, that only Mexicans by birth may be ministers of religion, that no minister of religion may criticize the laws or the authorities, that he may not vote or hold office, that new churches may not be dedicated without the permission from the Government, that the religious press may not comment on public affairs, that there shall be no political associations which have religious affiliations, that all the property of the church is subject to the same laws as other property in Mexico and that "no trial by jury shall ever be granted for the infraction of any of the preceding provisions."

THE means by which peace has in the past been made is by a kind of treaty known as a concordat. The church has been making concordats with hostile governments for at least eight centuries. It terminated the long investiture quarrel with the Empire by the Concordat of Worms in 1122. Before the Eighteenth Century it had made five concordats. In the Nineteenth Century it made 26. The most famous of all modern concordats was entered into with Napoleon in 1801. It contained such provisions as the reduction of the number of dioceses to less than half, and an agreement that the Bishops would appoint only such parish priests as were acceptable to the Government.

We cite these historical precedents, not as suggestions as to how the present controversy can be adjusted, but as indications of the flexibility of the church in dealing with just such questions as are now under dispute. Is it too much to hope that Church and State in Mexico may soon approach one another, each recognizing the jurisdiction of the other in its own sphere, and that of such negotiations a concordat might be arrived at which would bring peace to all concerned?

NO ONE can read these provisions without recognizing them as an extreme example of what is known in ecclesiastical history as Erastianism, which means the attempt to make the church subservient to the State. Erastianism differs wholly from the American doctrine of separation of Church and State, for in the Mexican law the effect is plainly to subject the church to the power of the State. The historical reasons why such laws were enacted in a country like Mexico, which is overwhelmingly Catholic, is a matter that it is not profitable now to discuss. The fact is sufficient. The church finds itself confronted with laws which deny it religious freedom as most modern men understand that term. For our part we do not hesitate to say that the church is right in principle when it declares that it cannot accept the status offered to it. No free religious life is possible in the long run when the civil power claims such authority.

THE situation in Mexico is not a new one in the history of church and State and there are plenty of precedents which indicate how a solution may be arrived at. The purpose of the Mexican Government, as we understand it, is to confine the activities of the church to the spiritual realm. The purpose of the church is to assure its own freedom within the spiritual realm. It is quite clear that Mexican law written under revolutionary conditions goes to extremes in its endeavor to destroy the temporal influence of the church. It is also clear that such extreme measures could not have been countenanced in a Catholic country had there not been an undue exercise of temporal influence in the past. There is, however, nothing irreconcilable in this conflict. The church has for centuries made peace with governments with which it was in conflict. In this instance neither the Mexican Government nor the Catholic Church claims in principle anything which either could not concede to the other. The conflict is not one of principle, but of specific laws.

THE means by which peace has in the past been made is by a kind of treaty known as a concordat. The church has been making concordats with hostile governments for at least eight centuries. It terminated the long investiture quarrel with the Empire by the Concordat of Worms in 1122. Before the Eighteenth Century it had made five concordats. In the Nineteenth Century it made 26. The most famous of all modern concordats was entered into with Napoleon in 1801. It contained such provisions as the reduction of the number of dioceses to less than half, and an agreement that the Bishops would appoint only such parish priests as were acceptable to the Government.

We cite these historical precedents, not as suggestions as to how the present controversy can be adjusted, but as indications of the flexibility of the church in dealing with just such questions as are now under dispute. Is it too much to hope that Church and State in Mexico may soon approach one another, each recognizing the jurisdiction of the other in its own sphere, and that of such negotiations a concordat might be arrived at which would bring peace to all concerned?

LIGHT LYRICS FOR WINTER WEATHER

To teach us all humility, the poet wants to know
Why mortal spirit should be proud, that all too soon must go Amid the silent shades that wait beyond the gate of death.
Why man should boast his mortal span, as fleeting as a breath;
Though scant our cause for baseness pride, far better as a theme
To teach us deeds are futile things, and life an empty dream.
The time the proudest of us all feels most a futile thing—
When all the loved one's lady friends are looking at the ring.

It seems to me—of course I'm wrong—to be the better plan
To disregard the ring she wears, and contemplate the man;
But scant the heed they pay to him, as swift they crowd about
To view the ring she proudly wears when once the secret's out.
The man is sorely tempted, as her girl friends view the stone,
To think he does not count for much— they see the ring alone;
When next the poet humble feels, all humbly let him sing
When all the loved one's lady friends are looking at the ring.

If we endeavor to improve those we love, some people love everybody but themselves.

"That's one for the book," muttered the scholar Lewis as he was ushered into the executive's office.

Sometimes they call him a running mate for a candidate, in place of saying he is a vice presidential aspirant, but the poet's obscurity is the same.

"Comment" in French means "how." Frequently in this country it means "And how!"

Neither did we expect to live to see the day when a document would be known as "a genuine forgery."

The man who was certain to make his mark in the world was a son who always lets the bathtub drain slowly.

From a casual survey of the photographs we incline to believe that the essential ingredient of a Balkan coup is a chest full of medals acquired stopping previous coups.

Forbidding the sale of toy pistols has been urged as a measure to prevent hold-ups. The proposal was made seriously.

And when the pretty defendant is acquitted on a plea of insanity, what does it have, we sometimes wonder, on her availability as a vaudeville performer?

What we want to know is, what becomes of the explanation after the scientist has explained the abstruse question so that the average man can understand it?

The Bitterness of Truth

FOR most of us "the world is so full of a number of things," as R. L. S. observed, that it is no wonder so many of us are persuaded to regard fact as being the same thing as a truth. Facts crowd us and they have a brutal way about them. Most of us are always jumping aside in our efforts to dodge or overtake them, and all lives are, in some measure, the result of compromise with, or surrender to, these tyrants of sense.

So bitter seems this truth to a certain human temperament, that vast sections of the human race long ago decided to deny the whole objective world of what we call fact, seeking truth in subjective states alone. That, virtually, is what Oriental philosophy does; and it would require a very wise man to prove just yet that the Oriental view is foolish.

We Occidentals are of a different temper; so different that we have gone to the opposite extreme; and too much can kill as well as too little.

All of us in the western world are born into a scientific atmosphere, and our thinking is conditioned by that fact, whether we know anything about science or not. It's "in the air." It is the business of science to deal with facts, and he would be a sorry philosopher, in our eyes at least, who could not admire the efficiency with which science has been, and still is, attending to its business.

But some people do not realize that, while it is the business of science to discover, name and classify facts, it is the business of art to do something very different; and, of course, literature is a form of art. Art in its largest sense, is applied philosophy working in the concrete stuff of our experience. It's business is to reveal, by various stratagems, the larger relations between the facts of human experience. In its highest forms, the relations revealed are those that endure so far as we are able to know, and that is far enough for our finite purposes. At least the relations revealed are unchanging in our little world of ever changing fact that seems to boil like quicksand. Our store of facts has increased enormously since the Greeks of fifth century Athens; but the human nature remains the same. And how can this be since they could not have considered more than a small portion of our facts? Because all our new facts fall naturally into old classifications.

However the separate classifications may be enlarged to hold the new facts that have sprung up, the relations between the classifications do not change, so far as men may know. If this were not true, there would be no place in the modern world for the Bible; Socrates would seem no longer wise; and Homer and Aeschylus.

FORD AND EDISON PLAN VACATION TOGETHER

Auto Magnate and Inventor Agree Hoover Should Run for Presidency.

By the Associated Press.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 11. Found together once again by eager interviewers, Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison today faced the usual barrage of questions which ranged from requests for endorsement of a presidential candidate to the possibility of future wars.

Ford came from New York to the Edison laboratories to visit his old friend. Both will leave tomorrow for Edison's winter home at Fort Myers, Fla.

Both were in hearty accord on the desirability for Secretary Hoover's candidacy for the presidential nomination. "I want Hoover," said Ford. "And so do I," chimed in Edison. "So, we agree, don't we, Tom?" Ford said, turning to the inventor with a broad smile.

Ford still declined to show interest in the fact that he is a billionaire. "I don't give a hoot whether I'm a billionaire or not, and besides, I don't know whether I am or not," he said.

Asked for his opinion on the future of airplanes as an implement of war, the automobile manufacturer declared there would be no more wars.

"The people today are too intelligent for war," he said emphatically. "Idleness is the cause of war, and there is enough industry now to keep everyone busy."

The faces of both Ford and Edison beamed perceptibly when the name of Charles A. Lindbergh was mentioned.

"Ah, there is no one like him," Ford said. "He is marvelous. He is developing new friendships."

Edison, however, failed to share Ford's enthusiasm for aviation. While Ford was avowing them "the greatest marvels of the age, and the coming thing," Edison said he would take no interest in airplanes until they are "perfected."

Ford displayed great interest in the inventor's collection of rubber plants in the laboratory, with which Edison has been endeavoring to produce a native growth. Edison declined to comment on the subject, but the manufacturer said his friend was meeting with success in his experiments.

Both were asked the usual questions relating to retirement. To these Ford replied: "I feel as Edison does. He is older than I. He is 84 and I am 65. If he refuses to retire, do you think that I, a younger man, should?"

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. THE dangerous age seems to be thirty itself along Broadway for the gayest of Romeos are past 40. They are ripe fruit for the White Way shake-down. Girls experienced in the science of gold digging are not interested in moon-struck sprigs.

They find pay dirt among those who adjust their glasses to read the menus. These are the sly foxes who after 18 or 20 years of the marriage yoke come to a sudden realization they are "misunderstood at home."

AND so they step out for a final gallop after romance before the arrival of the chimney corner and carpet slippers. That there is no fool like an old fool is strikingly illustrated on Broadway after dark.

Here you see gay old boys clutching at the rosy adventure.

STRANGELY enough they are often men who have won eminence in a two-fisted manner in the business world and yet are made complete saps by a baby curl or a lip. Likely as not they have grandchildren, but they get a glorious kick-out of being called "Daddies."

JUST last night I sat next table to a venerable Lothario who seemed completely entranced by the ookie-lickie talk of one of those wide-eyed kiddies who was in the preliminary stage of weeping him out. A ring she saw that morning at Cartier's.

AND later the same evening I another haunt she was cooing to one of those vascinated young men with immobile expressions who clipped his few comments out the side of a tight lipped mouth. He probably would escort her home one street car and she would love it.

BROADWAY looks lightly on philandering among youth and middle age. It has the tolerant attitude that after all ladies must live. It a maid can take an old bozo for the proverbial "cleaning."

Radio News and Programs on the Networks — 24-Hour a Day Broadcasting Predicted

ADVERTISING BY RADIO SAID TO GAIN PRESTIGE

Director of Development for Red and Blue Chain Speaks in St. Louis.

Continuous broadcasting on a 24-hour a day basis is just ahead, according to George H. Jasper, managing director of WBB and WBBZ, the Westinghouse stations at Springfield, Mass., and Boston.

Great development of radio advertising is predicted by Jasper, as also by Frank A. Arnold, director of development for the National Broadcasting Co., which supplies the programs for the Red and Blue networks from its key stations, WBB and WBBZ. Arnold spoke yesterday before the Advertising Club of St. Louis at a luncheon at Hotel Statler.

"Today, broadcast advertising is considered seriously by many of the largest national advertisers in the country," Arnold told the Advertising Club.

"Take a Magazine of the Air. This great magazine of the air, now national and potentially international in its scope, already counts among its contributors the leading vocal and instrumental artists of the world as well as authors, humorists, educators, journalists and others who are making the best obtainable contributions to the cultural and social life of mankind," Arnold said.

"Carry this comparison another step—the program builders are the editors of this magazine. The sustaining or non-commercial programs represent the reading matter, while the commercial or sponsored numbers correspond to the advertising.

The circulation of radio broadcasting is limited only by the number of receiving sets located in a given area.

"The immensity of the radio audience to whom programs are broadcast, will be seen when we consider that 6,000,000 homes in the United States now have receiving sets, with an average of better than five listeners to each set, while 21,000,000 homes are yet to be equipped before the saturation point is reached.

Vast Potential Audience.

"Never before in the history of the human race has any media of communication had such an actual, as well as potential audience, involving great opportunities coupled with tremendous responsibilities.

Up to the present, commercial copy has depended largely for its effectiveness on eye appeal, resulting in the most beautiful and attractive advertising the world has ever seen, and where black and white and color combinations have been of such excellence as to rank as works of art.

"But all this has been eye appeal. Now, along comes this fourth dimension of advertising—broadcasting—with its exclusive ear appeal. By skillfully combining the two, and by making its commercial program tie in closely with the printed page, broadcast advertising has succeeded, theoretically, at least, in obtaining 100 per cent of individual interest in a given subject."

As WBB Director Sees It.

"Today the majority of the more powerful stations are operating on an eight to 16-hour schedule, and there is every indication that a longer broadcasting day is at hand," said Jasper in a talk in Springfield, Mass.

"The gain has been well marked, although not particularly rapid. In all probability broadcasters of the next generation will be plugging the air 24 hours a day. Day and night broadcasting is just ahead of us, and the game is open—up."

PALMOLIVE PROGRAM MADE UP FROM 'REQUEST' LETTERS

A "request" program made up from "encore" cards and letters of comment on previous broadcasts of this feature is to be given in the Palmolive hour on KSD next Friday night.

The concluding program number is to be Eliza's "Pomp and Circumstance" march, played by an orchestra with chorus, instead of merely by an orchestra, as, of course, is customary.

IRVING BERLIN MUSIC IN 'HOOPER SENTINELS' PERIOD

The Hoover Sentinels are to open their program on KSD tomorrow night with three Irving Berlin numbers — "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "When I Lost You" and "The Song Is Ended."

GLADYS RICE SOLOIST IN DODGE HOUR TOMORROW

Gladys Rice, noted radio soprano, will be soloist in the Dodge Brothers presentation over KSD tomorrow night.

Among those who will take part in this program are Elliott Shaw, baritone; Ed Smalle, novelty singer; Andy Sanella, saxophonist; Earl Oliver, trumpeter; Lou Raderman, violinist; and Joe Green, marimba soloist.

RUSSIAN PIANIST TO PLAY IN COMING AMPICO HOUR

Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Minor will open the Ampico Hour tomorrow evening on KWK. Benno Moiseiwitsch, the Russian pianist, will be the guest musician.

MUCH DEBATED WORK REPEATED IN RCA HOUR

New York Symphony Orchestra to Play 'Pacific 231' Over KSD Saturday Night.

Because of the interest among listeners aroused by the playing of Arthur Honegger's "Pacific 231" in a recent RCA Hour, Walter Damrosch has decided to repeat this much debated work during the program by the New York Symphony Orchestra which will be broadcast through KSD next Saturday night.

"Pacific 231" was inspired by a modern locomotive. Hundreds of letters were written to Dr. Damrosch about the work when it was first performed. A few condemned it, but the majority expressed a eagerness to hear it again.

The opening number in this RCA Hour will be "Carmen." Beethoven will be represented in this program by his polonaise for string.

Another work to be played is Liszt's symphonic poem, "Les Preludes," based on Lamartine's "Meditations Poetiques."

"What is our life but a succession of preludes to that unknown song whose first solemn note is sounded by death?" wrote Lamartine, and the first part of Liszt's composition contains hints of the unknown song. The music rises to a triumphant climax in the brass choirs, supported by all the resources of the orchestra.

STEPHEN FOSTER SONGS IN HOUR ON COLUMBIA CHAIN

Tonight's Columbia Phonograph Hour over the Columbia Chain through KMOX is to be devoted to songs of Stephen Foster, composer of Southern melodies.

In addition to "Toga Waltz," which Foster wrote at the age of 13 years, the program is to include: "O, Susanna," "The Camp-Town Races," "Stay, Summer Breath," "Dolly Jones," "Lilly Ray," "Jeane With the Light Brown Hair," "De Glandy Burke," "Dolly Day," "Open Thy Lattice, Love," "Old Black Joe," "Massa in de Cold, Cold Ground," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Folks at Home." The Columbia Symphony Orchestra will play a fantasy entitled "Gems of Stephen Foster."

"Broadway Night," featuring selections from popular New York shows, will be presented in the Maxwell House Hour, which will be broadcast through KSD tomorrow night.
The program will open with selections from "Hit the Deck," played by the Maxwell Orchestra under Nathaniel Shilkret. The writers of "Good News"—De Sylva, Henderson and Brown—will present a few musical sketches. The Liebling Singers from the Strand Theater will present special numbers, while Walter Donaldson, Milton Ager and Jack Yellen will represent Tin Pan Alley with several hits.
Wee Willie Roberson and Maj. Bowes of the Capitol Theater family, will present "Moments With You," the latest song by Nathaniel Shilkret and Jack Yellen. Gladys Rice and Douglas Stanbury of Roxy's Gang will sing and there will be a musical unit from the Paramount Theater. Rubie Bloom, pianist, will illustrate the latest trend in jazz by playing "Soliloquy."
The members of the all-star cast in this Maxwell Hour will be heard together in a representation of New York's night clubs.

MAN SENTENCED TO DIE YEARS AGO MISSING AT SEA

Cape Hatteras Gale Appears to Have Swallowed Capt. T. M. Bram and His Schooner Alvena.

By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 11.—A Cape Hatteras gale seemed today to have swallowed up Capt. Thomas M. Bram, who 30 years ago was sentenced to be hanged for a triple murder. With him, apparently, had vanished his four-masted schooner, the Alvena, a ship with a history almost as curious as its skipper's.
The lumber-laden craft bound from Jacksonville, Fla., to this port, was last spoken Sunday, when in distress. Since then Coast Guard cutters have failed to find trace of it.

Today old-timers were recalling the man who back in 1886 was convicted at Boston of the murder of Captain Nash of the Barkentine Herbert Fuller, Nash's wife, and his second mate.

They were certain he and the master of the Alvena were one and they spoke in hushed voices of what they saw as the retribution of the sea for one of the most atrocious triple murders in their memory. Little hope they held that schooner or skipper would ever reach this port.

An Old Tragedy of the Sea.
In 1886 the Herbert Fuller was bound from Halifax for South America and Bram was a member of the crew. One morning sailors discovered the bodies of the two ship's officers and that of Mrs. Nash. They had been killed with an ax.

Charles Brown, the man at the wheel, was accused by Bram and promptly put in irons. Not long afterward Bram was detected in the act of removing an ax from beneath a deck board, and he took Brown's place in the ship's hold. The ship was turned about and with flag at half staff and the bodies of the three victims being towed in a small boat, put back to port.

Bram was taken under guard to Boston, where in the same year a Federal jury convicted him and he was sentenced to be hanged. At a second trial, however, he escaped with a sentence of life imprisonment at Atlanta.

Years later Mary Roberts Rinehardt wove into a novel the story of the murders and, having become interested in the former sailor, she visited him and through her efforts President Taft was persuaded to grant a parole which was later made a pardon by President Wilson.

The freed slayer opened a bar at Atlanta for a time and rumor had it that he accumulated a small fortune but the lure of the sea was strong and he became interested in the purchase of schooners. The Alvena was one of these. She and her sister ship, the Irene, were known in ports of call on both sides of the Pacific. But steam, electricity and oil doomed them inevitably to the graveyard of ships and for years they rotted in the mud of a West Coast harbor.

In 1925, however, both were raised and refitted and in December of that year they stood out from Aberdeen, Wash., in a handicap race for Miami, Fla., and the building boom. Each carried a cargo of lumber.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

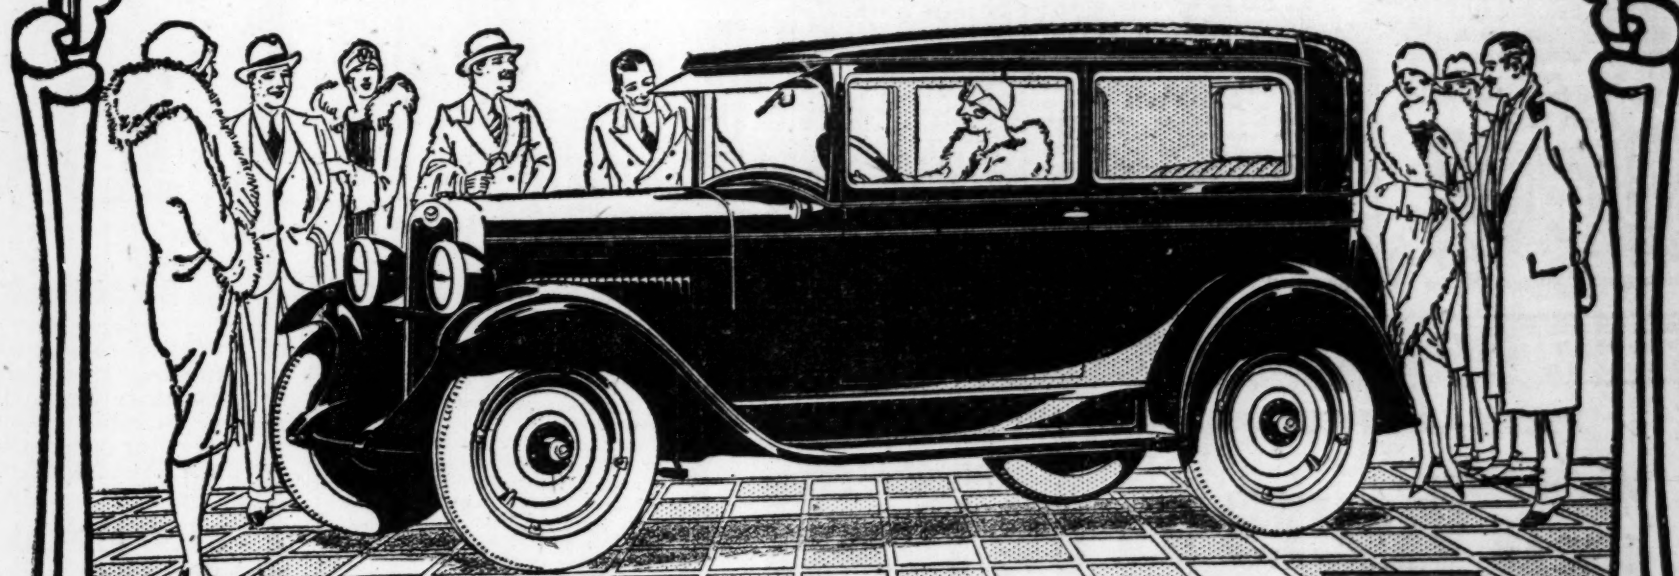

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

TUNNEY ONE OF GREATEST CHAMPIONS, SAYS RICKARD

PROMOTER MAKES PUBLIC ANNUAL BOXING RANKINGS

Title Holders in All Classes With Exception of Junior Welterweight Are Placed at Top.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—For the fourth successive year, Tex Rickard lined up the rank and file of pugilists for "The Ring," a boxing publication, and at the head of the parade set Gene Tunney.

All recognized champions lead their classes except in the somewhat obscure junior welterweight section, where Ruby Goldstein gains top position over Mushy Callahan, hailed as champion of the 140-pound class.

In all but the heavyweight class, the promoter split the divisions into two groups, only the first of which were ranked numerically. Among the ponderous battlers Rickard set Tunney first, Jack Dempsey second and Jack Sharkey third, before dividing the remainder of the heavyweights into two groups.

Rickard deplored the lack of outstanding foreign contenders in a copyrighted article accompanying the selections. He declared Gene Tunney the "big sensation of last year, as he was the shining light of 1926."

Tunney Great Champion.
"There is no denying that Tunney is not only a champion but a great champion," he said. "I believe that he is one of the greatest champions the class has seen. Any man who saw Dempsey make the most desperate effort of his entire career and send Tunney down—and then saw Tunney come out of this crisis and fight back until he hurt his man, must admit that in Gene Tunney the American ring has developed another outstanding exponent of science, power, gameness—and sportsmanship."

In the lightest three divisions, where title possession has been the subject of controversy since the recognized champions voluntarily relinquished their purple robes, Rickard ranked Tony Canzoneri at the head of the featherweights, Bud Taylor at the top of the bantamweight division, and gave the flyweight palm to Corp. Izzy Schwartz.

Based on his judgment entirely on performances during the past year, Rickard placed the late Tiger Flowers just back of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion. Sgt. Sammy Baker gained the edge over Ace Hudkins for second place in the welterweight standing behind Joe Dundee, the titleholder.

By James W. Coffroth.

IT WASN'T until 1903 that I began promoting fights "on my own" and not until two years later did I devote myself exclusively to that business.

In 1901, when the first show I ever had anything to do with, was put on, James C. Kennedy of New York, a former promoter in that town, and Jack Gleason of San Francisco were my partners. In 1902, Gleason dropped out and the following year Kennedy and I ran the business together.

But in 1904 that partnership was dissolved because of the death of Kennedy. By 1905 I was into the sport to the absolute limit. It was growing bigger and bigger and demanding so much of my time that I realized I couldn't do justice to both of the jobs I was holding—that of fight promoter and also that of secretary of the Courts of San Francisco.

So in 1905, after being Secretary of the Courts for 14 years, I turned in my resignation. Never Lost on a Fight. I NEVER put on a show that didn't show some sort of a profit for me. But I'm not going to take any real credit for that. For I was promoting, for the most part, in an era when guarantees to fighters were unknown—when the boys fought on a percentage basis. Of course, there were times when the boys wanted to get an idea that they deserved about 99 per cent. But those instances were rare. Most of the time I gave the fighters 60 per cent of the gross. For star bouts I'd turn over 45 per cent to the fighters and on some occasions, I gave them 70 per cent.

The fighters then agreed between themselves as to how the purse was to be cut. Usually it was 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. Other times it was 75-25, occasionally 90-10 and when men were hated enemies, they agreed that the winner was to get it all—the loser was to receive nothing but a beating. Those were FIGHTIN' DAYS.

Receipts Set New Record. In 1902, put on a world's championship between Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries, which established a new world record in the matter of gate receipts. The total was $63,340. I had beaten the gate between Tom Sharkey and Jim Jeffries, made a few years before at Coney Island, and which was around $52,000.

Corbett and Jeff fought on a 65 per cent basis, which they agreed to split 75 per cent to the winner and 25 to the loser. The fighters' purse, therefore, amounted to $41,171, of which Jeff got about $31,000 and Corbett about $10,000.

When I had completed paying all expenses incident to that fight, and to the showing or the sale of the pictures, I found that my profit was a trifling $145,000. I was in "big money"—at last. (The ninth chapter will appear tomorrow.)

Compare those figures with $1,000,000 for Tunney and $450,000 for Dempsey in Chicago and then you will realize how vast has been the financial change in the fight game in the span of 24 years.

I came out on top in putting on that Corbett-Jeffries show. After I had paid off the fighters and settled the incidentals, the profits almost hit $11,000—a huge sum in those days; clear money in this astonishing fight era.

In 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 and in to 1905, I put on, either alone, or with my partners, perhaps 60 fight shows in San Francisco or Colma. Several world's championship battles were included, in addition to the one between Corbett and Jeff. In 1902, Jeff and Bob Fitzsimmons fought their never-to-be-forgotten fight.

Real Harvest Starts. YET, for those four and a half years of effort, with rarely anything but champions or near champions to headline the cards, the total net profit probably didn't hit $50,000.

But in 1905 the harvest began—with the Battling Nelson-Jimmy Britt fight. It was just about then that America was getting excited about the moving pictures. Britt, an idol in San Francisco, his home town, and fought Nelson a year earlier and had won a 20-round decision from the "Durable Dane." Nelson demanded a return match and I found little trouble in signing up Jimmy.

"How much do you want for your end?" I finally asked him. "Five thousand dollars," answered Nelson. I gave him $5000 and took over his interest. Britt wasn't like Nelson. He didn't sell. He held on. The fight was a sensational affair, ending in the eighteenth when Nelson, almost at himself, knocked out Britt.

U. S. OLYMPIC GROUP APPROVES WINTER TEAMS

List of Country's Representatives in Ice Sports Announced — Amateur Groups Welcomed Back.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The American Olympic Association and its Executive Committee yesterday welcomed the National Collegiate Athletic Association and three other organizations back into the Olympic fold and laid further plans for American participation in the international games at Amsterdam this year.

Return to the Olympic body of the Collegiate Association, the National Amateur Athletic Federation, the Western Conference and the Y. M. C. A. heals a breach of more than a year's standing and assures harmony for carrying out America's part in the coming games. The four organizations broke from the ranks after a bitter battle with the Amateur Athletic Union over questions of Olympic policies and control. At their recent convention, both the collegiate association and the federation voted in favor of returning to membership. Yesterday's action heals the breach.

Committee Chairman Appointed. Appointment of committee chairman and approval of the membership of American teams in the Olympic winter sports competition furnished the chief business of the Olympic Association's Executive Committee meeting.

To these committees will be added representatives from every sports association holding membership in the Olympic body. The committees are charged with the task of preparing for qualifying trials but are responsible to the central Olympic committee.

Speed Skating—Valentine Blais, Lake Placid; O'Neil Farrell, Chicago; Irving Jaffe, New York, and Edward L. Murphy, Chicago. Figure Skating—Rodger F. Turner, men's singles; Nathaniel W. Niles and Sherwin C. Badger, men's singles and pair skating; Maribel Y. Vinson, women's singles; Theresa Weld Blanchard and Beatrice S. Loughran, women's singles and pair skating. Bob-sleigh—Jay O'Brien, Thomas Doe, Willard Rice, Geoffrey Mason, William Fliske, Lyman Hine, Tippy Gray, Harry Morgan, Jenison Heaton, Richard Park, W. Heaton, Chase Wilkes. Skeleton—Jennison Heaton, Fairchild McCarthy, W. Heaton, Harry Morgan.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Jan. 11.—Mary Magdalene Pitts, 3 years old, whose death after alleged torture Dec. 29 is being investigated by Greenup County authorities, was poisoned Dec. 28 by Mrs. Mary Frazier, his housekeeper, Robert Herman Pitts, the child's father, told officers here yesterday. Pitts and Mrs. Frazier are in jail here, charged with murder. Pitts said Mrs. Frazier had mistreated the child at various times.

"The night before Mary Magdalene died," Pitts said, "my oldest daughter, Nancy Evelyn, 10, told me that Mary (the housekeeper) had given her poison. I asked Mary about it and she said she had given her sugar and pepper for a cold. When I came home from work the next day the baby was dead."

Mrs. Frazier says Pitts told her several times he had escaped from a jail or a penitentiary. While denying any conspiracy to kill the child, Mrs. Frazier said that several times Pitts told her he "wasn't afraid of the law in Greenup County," but "afraid to kill Mary because they might find him out and he was wanted, anyway."

Pitts admitted he had been in jail. Police said he served a jail term in Richmond, Ky., about seven years ago on a liquor charge.

"She's a Septic!"
Many women want to be, and could be far more popular than they are. Doctors know why. So do nurses. They call such cases septic.
To remedy obnoxious body odors and bad breath, you must recognize their cause. The trouble is deep-seated. Frankly in the colon. Semi-constipation makes millions of systems septic. There may be a daily movement, but all the waste is not eliminated. The matter that remains poisons the blood, and permeates the perspiration. It taints the breath. Nature is signaling her need of a little calcium.
Calcium works wonders in one's appearance, too. With the inner system sweet and clean, the complexion clears most marvelously. Eyes brighten. Teeth whiten. The tongue is no longer coated, even on arising. And you never need take another harsh laxative.
Perhaps you are septic, and don't know it. Try a tiny bit of calcium, and see if it may make all the difference in the world. Leave harsh, habit-forming cathartics alone. You never need them if you take an occasional calcium tablet.
A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium, and the benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them for 10c. Or the family size, 50c. Start this test today!

I had an idea it would relieve me if anything would, and so it did. I took three bottles and was relieved of all the affects of my very bad cold. BRIDGE
As Played
By ExpertsDetails of Game Broadcast
Last Night Over the Radio Chain.

IN the eleventh of the series of Radio Bridge Games, broadcast last night from Station KSD, Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead had for their opponents Mr. Walter F. Wyman of Arlington, Mass., and Mr. E. E. Denison of Portland, Me., a well-known player and writer on Bridge.

Mr. Wyman, dealer, South, held: Spades, 8, 5, 3; Hearts, A, K, 10, 8, 2; Diamonds, 6, 5; Clubs, J, 10, 8.

Mr. Work, West, held: Spades, Q, 10, 6, 2; Hearts, Q, 5; Diamonds, K, 9, 8, 4; Clubs, K, Q, 6.

Mr. Denison, North, held: Spades, 9; Hearts, 8, 4, 3; Diamonds, A, Q, 7, 3; Clubs, A, 8, 5, 4.

Mr. Whitehead, East, held: Spades, A, K, J, 7, 4; Hearts, J, 7, 4; Diamonds, J, 10; Clubs, 7, 3, 2.

Mr. Wyman, the dealer, bid one Heart, a sound declaration based on his five-card Heart suit containing two quick tricks. Mr. Work passed.

Mr. Denison also passed. Had he been the Dealer, or had Dealer and Second Hand passed, Mr. Denison would have bid a Diamond.

But the same strong suit that would have permitted him to bid Diamonds would also support his partner's easier game-going bid of Hearts.

Had he held two small Hearts Mr. Denison would have denied normal support for Hearts by a bid of two Diamonds.

Mr. Whitehead, of course, bid one Spade, as his hand was strong enough even for an initial Spade bid.

Mr. Wyman passed, as he had already bid the full strength of his hand. Mr. Work passed. Mr. Denison bid two Diamonds. This bid, after his original pass of his partner's Heart bid, told his partner three things: First, that he had exactly three Hearts; otherwise he would have denied normal support on the first round of bidding.

Second, that he held no more than three Hearts; otherwise he would have assisted the Heart bid on the second round.

Instead of naming Diamonds Third, that he held a sound Diamond bid. By this Diamond bid Mr. Denison also invited his partner to continue with Hearts if his holding warranted his doing so with but three Hearts in Mr. Denison's hand.

A bid of this kind is called an indirect assist. Mr. Whitehead passed, as he lacked the necessary values for a rebid.

Mr. Wyman read Mr. Denison's bid correctly, but as he held five Hearts he returned to that suit, bidding two Hearts. Mr. Work went to two Spades, a sound assist based upon values held. Mr. Denison bid three Hearts. Since he had been assured by his partner as to the Heart situation, his side tricks called for strong Heart support.

Mr. Whitehead passed. Notwithstanding his partner's assist his holding did not warrant further bidding.

Mr. Wyman passed. Mr. Work bid three Spades, a slight overbid possibly, but one which was not liable to produce a material loss. Mr. Denison bid four Hearts. His side tricks in Diamonds and Clubs and his singleton in the Spade suit adversely bid, in connection with his partner's assurance regarding Hearts, more than justified this second assist.

Mr. Whitehead, Mr. Wyman and Mr. Work passed, therefore Mr. Wyman became the Declarer with his contract four Hearts.

Mr. Work, the initial leader, opened with the Queen of Spades. Dummy went down and Mr. Wyman played from it the singleton 9 of Spades. Mr. Whitehead played his King of Spades so as to obtain the lead to lead trumps up to weakness in Dummy. Mr. Wyman played the 2.

Mr. Whitehead led the 4 of Hearts. Mr. Wyman played the King; Mr. Work the 5; Dummy the 3.

Before continuing, Mr. Wyman decided upon his plan of play. A thoughtful or inexperienced player would doubtless have led a Spade in order to ruff it in Dummy before Dummy's two other trumps could be removed. Having ruffed the Spade, he would then discover too late that he could not re-enter his own hand for the lead of his other Spade without returning Dummy's last trump. Thus he would be left with a losing Spade in his own hand with no trump protection in Dummy to prevent its loss.

Mr. Wyman foresaw this situation. Discarding, therefore, any idea of a Spade lead, he considered the relative possibilities of a Diamond or a Club lead. He recalled that Mr. Whitehead did not rebid Spades, but that his partner, Mr. Work, West, assisted Spades twice. Mr. Wyman therefore correctly reasoned that the outstanding side strength should logically be with Mr. Work, and consequently that one or both of the Club honors together with the King of Diamonds should be in Mr. Work's hand. Therefore it was probable that a Diamond finesse would win. But an attempt to establish a diamond would involve the removal of the adverse trumps, and this could not be undertaken because of Mr. Work's two losing Spades, for which Dummy held trump protection.

Considering the Club suit, Mr. Wyman saw that if there were a 3-2 split of the outstanding six Clubs

SUE TO LOU

"The Old Virginia Cook Book"
Clams—Scalloped.

TAKE about 13 clams and chop them up fine with $\frac{1}{4}$ an onion. Then add 4 hard-boiled eggs cut into small pieces. Now take 2 cups of stale bread crumbs, moisten with enough milk to make them very soft, and add to the clams. Also add 2 tablespoonsful of melted butter. Mix well and season with pepper and salt. Put in a buttered baking dish, cover with bread crumbs and dot with small pieces of butter. Bake in a moderate oven for about $\frac{3}{4}$ of an hour.

he could establish a long Club on which to discard one of his two losing Spades. As his remaining losing Spade could be trumped without embarrassment, this play, if successful, would give him the number of tricks necessary for game, in case the high cards lay as he assumed.

Mr. Wyman therefore led the 9 of Clubs as the initial step towards the establishment of the Club suit. Mr. Work played low, the 6 of Clubs, in the hope that his partner held the Jack or 10, which could win the trick if Dummy's Ace were not played. If Mr. Whitehead held neither Jack nor 10, then Mr. Wyman must lead them; otherwise Mr. Work risked no danger of loss by not playing his Queen or King. Dummy ducked with the 4 of Clubs; Mr. Whitehead played the 2.

Mr. Wyman continued with the Jack of Clubs; Mr. Work covered with the Queen; Mr. Whitehead the Ace; Mr. Whitehead the 3. Dummy returned the 5 of Clubs; Mr. Whitehead played the 7; Declarer the 10; Mr. Work won with the King.

Mr. Work led the Queen of Hearts, to remove another of Dummy's trumps; Dummy played the 6; Mr. Whitehead the 7; Declarer the Ace.

Mr. Wyman next led the 6 of Diamonds; Mr. Work played the 4; Dummy finessed the Queen; and Mr. Whitehead played the 10. Dummy returned the Ace of Diamonds; Mr. Whitehead played the Jack; Declarer the 5; and Mr. Work the 8. Dummy continued with the 8 of Clubs; Mr. Whitehead, holding the high trump, good at any time for a trick, passed, discarding the 4 of Spades. Mr. Wyman discarded the 5 of Spades and Mr. Work the 6 of Spades.

Dummy led the 2 of Diamonds; Mr. Whitehead discarded the 7 of Spades; Mr. Wyman trumped with the 3 of Hearts; and Mr. Work played the 9 of Diamonds.

Mr. Wyman then led his losing 8 of Spades; Mr. Work played the 10; Dummy trumped with the 9 of Hearts; Mr. Whitehead played the Jack of Spades.

Dummy returned the 3 of Diamonds; Mr. Whitehead discarded the Ace of Spades; Mr. Wyman trumped with the 8 of Hearts; Mr. Work played the King of Diamonds. The final trick, of course, was won by Mr. Whitehead's Jack of Hearts.

Mr. Wyman, the Declarer, took four tricks, giving him game in Hearts. He scored 12 trick points and 20 for three honors.

In commenting on Mr. Wyman's skill, Mr. Work stated that it is the play of hands of this type that is most confusing to the average player, as it requires not only considerable experience but also considerable perspective to determine the correct procedure.

What Some of the Notables
Of New York Are Wearing

By Belle Brummel.

THE wardrobes of the haut monde contain many alluring resort costumes, and spring cannot be far behind.

One of the most attractive ensembles we have seen is fashioned of violet blue velveteen and is worn by Mrs. John Farr Jr. Saturday, lunching at Pierre's, we met Mrs. Farr dressed in this costume. The straightline coat, banded in natural lynx, was trimmed with a series of inverted tucks running from the neck to shoulder line. The severely plain frock of velveteen was accompanied by a blue felt hat cut with upturned brim. With the ensemble Mrs. Farr wore two strands of pearls and carried a gray reptile skin bag. Her pumps in gray reptile skin were piped in blue kid.

Tiny melon-shaped muffs are once more protecting the hands of smartly gowned women from the cold. Several made their appearance at Pierre's on Saturday, and two or three were noted at the docking of the Mauretania Tuesday.

The muffs are very small and round and made of fur that matches the wrap. Evelyn Subject, who arrived on the Mauretania, wore a wrap of squirrel accompanied by a little muff of the same fur.

Blue and gray were chosen by Mrs. Welles Bosworth for her traveling frock. To protect herself from the cold river wind, as she waited on the pier for the Customs Inspector, she threw a coat of mink over her three-piece wool ensemble. The small standing collar and front of her blue coat were banded by gray squirrel, and she wore a skull cap of blue felt trimmed with tiny ear muffs of gray and blue guinea feathers.

Chiffons rainbow hued and cut with jabots and cascades which flutter and swirl are used for dancing frocks by several of this season's debutantes.

Pale yellow chiffon fashions the dance dress worn by Martha Kountze. This shade, by the way, promises to be a favorite evening color for early spring.

The bodice of Miss Kountze's frock is patterned in crystal beads, and a soft jabot which starts at the left side of the waist terminates at the hemline of the skirt.

The restrained smartness and sense of refinement that are such vital qualities of a well-bred audience characterized the clothes seen at the opening of the "Royal Family." Mrs. William Beebe wore a black faille taffeta robe de style, accompanied by a black velvet cloak collared by ermine. Interesting style points of the frock were cartridge shifting at waistline, wide hem of black tulle and deep V decollete outlined with brilliants.

Certain towns in Northumberland and Durham, England, have the highest death rate in the country, while the lowest is to be found in rural districts of the Eastern counties.

WHAT PARENTS OWE CHILDREN

By Lucy Lowell.

SOME weeks ago I wrote of a little girl who had been injured in a motor accident. The parents were bringing suit for damages and planning to use the money for a new home.

I asked the opinion of my readers about this; whether the parents had the right to appropriate such money to their own use, even though the child shared in the benefits, or whether all of the money should be put away for the child's use, since her injuries were likely to be permanent.

The writer is Mrs. C. E. R. James, of Syracuse, N. Y. "My Dear Lucy Lowell:

"As I write my baby son, 15 months old today, lies sleeping. I read your article, 'Parental Obligations.' To me, twice a mother, one dear little baby son dying as he came to me, I cannot tell how parents can look into their dear children's eyes and take anything from them, especially money received from injuries.

"My heart longs to give, give, give to my dear child. Yes, to all children. What greater privilege has God given to man or woman? "They do not ask to come into this world of joy, pain and sorrow. We, the parents, bring them. Can we ask a money return?

"May God forgive parents who do.

"Their love and respect is a thousand payments to all we give them. The suggestion of the money going for a home is good if the property is needed to the child, the parents banking 6 per cent interest on the money in the child's name.

"Our son had a bank book when two weeks old in his name. We, his father and mother, hope to add to it regularly.

"Sincerely yours,
"MRS. C. E. R. JAMES."

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Speckles the Starling Is Talked About.

Gossip mixes truth and fiction;
The result is always friction.
—Old Mother Nature.

THAT is the trouble with gossip. It would be bad enough if it stuck to the truth, when the truth is bad, but when it includes fiction, telling things that are not so, there is bound to be trouble sooner or later. There is only one safe way to gossip and that is to listen and say nothing.

Speckles the Starling had been living in the Old Orchard, or near it, for a long time. He never had been welcomed among the other birds. None liked him. He was as unpopular as Bully the English Sparrow. All his feathered neighbors resented his presence there. It was because they all knew that Speckles the Starling doesn't belong in this country more than does Bully the English Sparrow. If he had been the best neighbor ever none would have admitted it. He was an outsider and he wasn't wanted, and that was all there was to it.

So you can guess that when they talked him over it was mostly to say unpleasant things about him. "Did you ever see such a pig?" said Sammy Jay, as they watched Speckles gobbling bits of bread which Mother Brown had thrown out.

"He may be a pig while he's eating," said Drummer the Woodpecker, "but I notice that when he comes to his stomach is full he stops eating; he doesn't carry it away."

"He would if he were thrifty," declared Sammy Jay virtuously. "It's because I'm thrifty that I store food."

"Hub!" exclaimed Chatterer the Red Squirrel, who happened along just then. "I call it greed. If you stored it away in a storehouse it might be theft. But you hide it here and hide it there all over the Old Orchard, where you can't find it yourself and nobody else can. That's what I call greed."

"Well, what has all this to do with Speckles the Starling?" asked Yank Yank the Nuthatch. "He may be greedy, all right, and I dare say he is, but there are so many other greedy people that I don't think anything of that. What I dislike is the way he tries to drive other people away. He hasn't any manners."

"You've said it!" declared Drummer the Woodpecker. "That fellow hasn't any manners at all. He just simply isn't decent. The fact is, I don't know a good thing about him."

"Oh, yes, you do!" broke in Tommy the Chickadee. "Yes you do, Drummer. You know very well that he's a good whistler."

Drummer grudgingly confessed that this was so. He had to, for that very minute Speckles was

"Hub!" exclaimed Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

whistling over in Farmer Brown's dooryard, and his whistle was good to hear. "I expect," continued Tommy, "that if the truth were known there is a lot of good in Speckles."

"Hub!" said Sammy Jay. "If there is he has managed to keep it well hidden."

"Perhaps you don't see it because you don't want to see it," said Tommy. "He and I dodged behind the trunk of a tree as Sammy dashed at him."

"I'll admit that he can whistle," said Yank Yank, "but I wish you'd tell me one other good thing about Speckles the Starling. What good does he do? Now, look at us! We work all winter long picking off the insect eggs and killing the grubs on Farmer Brown's trees. We are the best friends Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy have. Yet Speckles the Starling tries to drive us out of the Old Orchard. Do you see any good in that?"

Concerning Coffee

Keep the coffee tightly sealed in a glass container.

Don't guess at amounts when making coffee. Measure both water and coffee carefully.

Keep the coffee pot absolutely clean and free from coffee deposits. Wash it carefully after each meal.

Do not buy so much coffee at a time that it stands around for a long while or it will lose its strength.

Buy a good grade of coffee. It is economy in the long run, because it goes further and is easy on the digestion.

THE ACCIDENTS THAT ARE MADE TO ORDER

Fictitious Mishaps Are Staged by Cunning Crooks to Collect Damages From Owners and Insurance Companies.

By James P. Wilkinson.
Assistant United States Attorney,
at New York.

(As told to Prosper Buranelli.)

SUPPOSE it happened to you. That is a favorite surmise when almost anything occurs. Well, suppose you were made the subject for a fake accident. That is quite possible. The fake accident game is running overtime now, and the hands of swindlers are able to use nearly anyone for a mark. Automobile drivers and owners are the favorite game, but fraudulent accident and false injury may take the most tricky and ingenious forms, and may befall in unexpected places.

The matter is brought to prominent notice by the recent prosecution in the Federal Court in Brooklyn of the Nitzberg-Kaye gang, one of the biggest, boldest and cleverest rings of fraudulent accident crooks on record. As Assistant United States Attorney for the Eastern District of New York, I was in charge of the Government's case.

The band was large and well organized. Among the accused were two doctors and two lawyers. We got 16 convictions with prison sentences of varying lengths. This rascally outfit had been operating for less than three years, but in that time had taken something like a quarter of a million dollars. It had its share in running up the yearly total of $5,000,000 that goes to pay for fictitious accidents, and no trivial part in keeping the accident insurance premiums as high as they are.

Suppose it did happen to you, and a fake accident was arranged and you blamed for the fraudulent damage. What could you do? You most likely wouldn't have any idea you were being framed unless you knew the kind of tricks that are being played. So, here's telling you, as a first point of information. I can't think of any better way than to relate something of the operations of the gang we have just convicted. A list of their dodges and devices makes a veritable text-book of accident swindling.

THE gang would station a man at a point along a highway, where he would note down the license numbers of prospective-looking automobiles that passed. Soon the owners of these vehicles would receive each a letter from a lawyer, something like this:

"Mr. Smith: Your car hit the car of my client, Mr. So and so, place and time being such and such. Damages demanded."

The damages would consist of fake garage charges, nor would the element of personal injury be excluded, even if this latter consisted of nothing more than a shaking up, fright and a shock, especially on the part of the supposed lady in the imagined mishap—she, if it were necessary to produce her, a member of the gang.

The astonished Mr. Smith would reply that there must be some mistake, that while his car passed the place stated at the time stated, no such accident had taken place. The affair would presently find its way to the insurance company. The insurance people might surmise Mr. Smith's denial of the accident was to be laid to the desire of somebody not to seem at fault. Anyway, it might be cheaper to pay the claim than to go to court. And a crooked deal would be neatly put over.

Or an accident might be staged. A car driven by a member of the gang would hit another car, and the claim for damages be made on the ground that the other car had done the hitting. Bits of skillful driving were needed for this sort of thing, but the boys were skillful. The screams and postures of the victims injured in the swindling case when the crash took place needed artistic acting, but the boys were good stage managers.

ONE of their most brilliant conceptions was achieved when they conducted a series of accidents among themselves. They had sidwings and collisions, and in dramatic fashion smashed up garage bills and the injuries, a neat penny was turned.

I think the height of impudence was reached when the law lawyers, who was the head of the gang, drove out of his mother's garage and took the doors off, whereupon she claimed damages of him. He passed her over to the insurance company with which he held a policy. The case went to court, and the lawyer's mother got a verdict from the jury. The company paid.

The common occurrence of pedestrians struck by automobiles was not one to be ignored by such ingenious gentry. Often it was pretended that the lawyer's unfortunate client, who never had been near the car against which the complaint was made, had been hit and knocked down, with the implication that the driver was one of the hit-and-run confraternity. With that ugly inference, denials of the accident were of slight value.

On other occasions drama was staged. One of the gang members would allow an oncoming automobile to pass—near him, whereupon with loud cries he would throw himself to the ground as if he had been struck. On some of these cases remarkable bits of the mimetic art, with writings and groanings of the supposed victim, were enacted. The doctors attached to the gang certified to false injuries. They used great resources of learning and imagination in getting up pretended symptoms. I have been told of one doctor who had a part in the fraudulent accident game, that he could take an X-ray picture of a fracture. A hair laid deftly on the skin when the picture was made would show as the line of a fracture in the plate.

For the benefit of the physicians employed by the insurance companies, various tricks were used. In some cases of pretended injury a bit of playing acting by the patient sufficed. Often actual injuries were produced for the company doctor's suspicious eyes. The gang looked for safe and convenient fellows who had been hurt in some fashion or other. Fake accidents were arranged to fit their cases.

A MAN with a broken leg was a treasure. One fellow who had been bruised about the body at his regular job had seven accidents in three weeks. The star performer was a chap who lost the same two teeth four times. He had, in fact, lost them at one previous time, but the phenomenon of two missing incisors was too valuable.

weather. If, therefore, this condition could be overcome, as it unquestionably can in a vast number of cases, I am truly glad to point the way.

It appears to be an established fact that obesity is often due to a partial failure of the thyroid gland to secrete and disperse through the blood an iodine gland substance which nature intended as a regulator of the fat absorption from the food consumed. Science, discovered that the simple administration of the desiccated thyroid through myriads of experiments is a substance supplies to a degree nature's need for the control of fatty accumulation.

For many years I have recommended Arbolone tablets, as a reliable, non-secret home remedy, as it contains one grain of thyroid gland, with approved ingredients, that have a tendency to aid in reducing the superfluous fatty tissues, to regulate the perverted craving for wrong foods. Taken as per directions, I have never known them to be harmful; on the contrary, many have gratefully written me to say so. Leading pharmacies dispense Arbolone Tablets.

fallen down the stairs in the apartment house where he lived and had cut his hand on glass lying at the bottom—and he had so far as the landlord knew when he paid the damages.

AND now for a classic. The lawyer who led the gang went to a poker game at a friend's house. He lost money in the game, but nevertheless the evening turned out to be a profitable one. On his way out of the house he made the discovery that on the stairs was a loose edge of carpet. He told this interesting fact to one of his subordinates.

"And I'm bringing you to the game next week," he said, "and you're going to trip over that flap of carpet and fall down the stairs."

Thus it happened that an interesting evening of stud ended with a lamentable mishap, when one of the guests, as he departed, rolled down a flight of stairs and lay uttering pitiful moans. The apartment house paid.

Or, if you do not consider that a classic, take the story of the horsefly in the ice cream soda. It was an interesting game, and was worked a dozen times. A man would go to a soda fountain, preferably a fancy one, would order an ice cream soda, and start to drink it. Then he would make a loud protest and fish from the glass a big horsefly. He would complain of illness and nausea produced by the horrid misadventure and hurry away. Next day the owners of the soda fountain would get a letter from a lawyer threatening a suit over the affair unless damages were paid. The man who had found the horsefly in the ice cream soda, the letter would go on, had been made ill for a couple of days by it.

No ice cream parlor wants a law suit and attendant publicity connected with the subject of insects of any kind, particularly flies. The damages would be paid with little argument. Of course the horsefly himself had dropped the fly into the ice cream soda. He made it a point to catch big flies for the purpose.

Reducing Your Weight

By Dr. Theodore Beck

Science recognizes the extreme embarrassment, the constant annoyance and the real danger of becoming too fleshy. Particularly is this condition most pitiable during hot weather. If, therefore, this condition could be overcome, as it unquestionably can in a vast number of cases, I am truly glad to point the way.

It appears to be an established fact that obesity is often due to a partial failure of the thyroid gland to secrete and disperse through the blood an iodine gland substance which nature intended as a regulator of the fat absorption from the food consumed. Science, discovered that the simple administration of the desiccated thyroid through myriads of experiments is a substance supplies to a degree nature's need for the control of fatty accumulation.

For many years I have recommended Arbolone tablets, as a reliable, non-secret home remedy, as it contains one grain of thyroid gland, with approved ingredients, that have a tendency to aid in reducing the superfluous fatty tissues, to regulate the perverted craving for wrong foods. Taken as per directions, I have never known them to be harmful; on the contrary, many have gratefully written me to say so. Leading pharmacies dispense Arbolone Tablets.

NEW YORK CITY, John D. S. E. 125th St., writes: "I used Arbolone Tablets two weeks and lost 15 pounds. Weighed 150 before and now 135. I am 55 years old, a baker and weigher of goods. It is a great relief for me, so thank you."

Used Arbolone Successfully
BENNOVA, PA., Mrs. H. A. P. Erie Ave., writes: "I took the Arbolone tablets and must say they have done me a lot of good. I weigh 180 pounds. After taking a few days I did not have that stuffy feeling so I kept on and now I weigh 160 pounds. Thanks to you for the good they have done. I am telling my over-stout friends, because I know they have never done me any harm. Thanking you again, etc."

Arbolone tablets are sold by good druggists everywhere.

KEEPING COUNT OF HOME COSTS

EVERY family is interested in getting the best returns possible for its income. Business experience has shown that to do so it is necessary to make systematic checkups of profits and losses, of poor purchases and successful ones; to plan ahead for expansion and to cut down overhead. The same principle applies to managing the family money. It is not enough to write down a list of miscellaneous purchases and add them up. To be able to use this information must be classified under such heads as food, housing, clothing and so on, and at regular intervals the amounts spent under each head must be scrutinized. Are they greater or less than was expected? If greater, why? How can they be reduced? Accounts are kept to get at facts of this kind in order to make next year's income yield more than this year's.

The Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, has just issued a loose-leaf household account book devised by Mrs. Chase G. Woodhouse of the economic division. Each of the various groups of expenditures is kept on a separate page, with concise directions as to what kinds of items should be entered under each head. Other features of special interest are the forms for yearly estimates of income and expenditures, the summary of property owned, and the pages for recording insurance and investments.

There are also special forms for the rural homemaker on which to record products furnished by the farm and supplies canned and preserved at home.

The "Record of Family Expenditures" is not available for free distribution, but may be purchased for 50 cents in cash from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

Fred Harvey service meal sets the standard

Fred Harvey meal service on the Santa Fe is a distinctive feature of a distinctive railway—unequaled in American railroading. It has an international reputation.

Experienced travelers know this is true. Ask any of these veterans of the steel highway and their answer is apt to be—best in the world.

This really remarkable service was conceived with high ideals. What is the most that can be given the patron for his dollar, always has been and still is the big idea and big ideal. Only the best is good enough for the Santa Fe and Fred Harvey.

In unique dining stations, 125 miles or so apart, Santa Fe-Fred Harvey have endeavored to capture the charm of southwest history and romance. Yet these dining stations are but a moment's walk from Santa Fe rails.

On the Santa Fe you do not eat in an eating house; you dine at a dining station. There is a difference—the Fred Harvey "difference."

Also perfect Fred Harvey dining car service on certain trains.

Five Santa Fe trains leave Chicago and Kansas City every day for California. "Santa Fe all the way." Besides The Chief there are The California Limited, The Navajo, The Scout and The Missionary—all offering famous Fred Harvey meal service.
